WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—President Roosevelt went before a sympathetic congress today—a congress eager to do his bidding—with a broad program of governmental planning designed (1) to get the federal government out of the direct relief business and (2) to initiate a long range series of useful public works that will put from three to four million unemployed back to work.

The cost of this program will be estimated in the budget message which Mr. Roosevelt will send to congress next week. In today's mes-

Dear Pa Newc:

I have some inquiries about why that old landmark—the elm tree on Jefferson street—was cut down by the P. O. Power company. In the first place the tree was surrounded on all sides by concrete, which did not allow proper root nourishment which caused the tree to decay slowly of dry rot. And in the second place the elm was quite old and its life cycle was hastened on by the condition in which it had to exist, thus making it a menace to public safety. It took just a few hours to

The measure is designed to void the citizenship of all Americans who have gone to vote in the Saar.

Defense Counsel Fires Questions At Lindbergh

"Are You Armed?" First Question In Cross Examination Of Lindy

COLONEL REPLIES THAT HE IS NOT

Defense Questioning Centers Around Personnell Employed By Lindberghs

COURTROOM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 4.—"Colonel, are you armed?"

This was the first question hurled at Col. Charles A. Lindbergh by Chief Defense Counsel Edward J. Reilly as the famous flyer underwent cross-examination today at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who is accused of kidnaping and murdering his twenty-month-old son.

A short time before Col. Lindbergh had identified Hauptmann through his voice as the man whom he heard call, "Hey, Doctor," to Dr. John F. 'Jafsie' Condon the night he and Condon went to a cemetery in the Bronx, New York City, to pay over the $50,000 ransom.

There was a stir as Reilly asked Lindbergh if he was armed. Attorney General David T. Wilentz, heading the prosecution staff, was on his feet immediately with an objection.

Lindbergh, paler than usual, held up his hand to silence Wilentz.

"I'll answer that question—I have no objection," said Lindbergh, "No, I am not armed".

It had been reported on the first day of the trial Lindbergh came into court with a revolver in a shoulder holster. It is understood he has carried a gun for the past five years and that he is a crack small arms shot.

Reilly questioned Lindbergh about closing a wood road, but the witness

COLONEL LINDBERGH

ANNE LINDBERGH

Here are the most dramatic photos made as yet at the Bruno Hauptmann murder trial at Flemington, N. J., showing both Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh on the witness stand. The mother of the dead child was among the first of the state's witness, followed by the Colonel.

COURTROOM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 4—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, under cross examination today denied at the murder trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann that he had ever telephoned Washington and asked "somebody" to have federal agents "lay off" the Lindbergh baby kidnaping—that he, Lindbergh would handle it himself."

Lindbergh during direct examination dramatically identified Hauptmann through his voice as the man he heard call, "Hey, doctor!" to Dr. John F. Condon when he (Lindbergh) and Condon went at night to a cemetery in the Bronx, New York City, to pay over the $50,000 ransom for the return of the baby.

Hauptmann shifted a bit in his chair when Lindbergh made the identification but quickly regained his poise.

Vigorous Cross-Examination

Colonel Lindbergh was subjected to a vigorous cross examination by Edward J. Reilly, chief counsel for the defense. At one stage Attorney General David T. Wilentz bitterly objected to the tone employed by the defense lawyer.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 4.—Anne Morrow Lindbergh today has the world at her feet.

Slim, straight, fighting tears and clinging to poise...a mother touching little baby garments with a lightness almost a caress, baring her soul to the world at the command of the state—Anne yesterday placed a dainty finger on a hard world's heart and won.

"She's a thoroughbred..."

Throughout this little town, packed with hardened newspapermen accustomed to every conceivable scene, that thought is ringing.

Heart-Clutching Drama.

"Did you ever see anything like it?" they are asking, still gasping at the most heart-clutching drama ever enacted before their eyes. Unblushingly, they admit to tears as they listened to her on the witness stand.

In a single stroke, metropolitan veneer has been wiped from the Flemington picture and curiosity has lost to shame.

"I had no right to watch her," one woman said. "I only come to stare—why—why was I allowed to stay? I'm so ashamed."

It was in an atmosphere tense with expectancy that Anne mounted

Hauptmann Stirs Nervously As Lindbergh Emphatically Makes Identification

COURTROOM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 4.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, on the witness stand today, identified Bruno Hauptmann through his voice as the man he heard say, "Hey, Doctor" to Dr. John F. "Jafsie" Condon, the Lindbergh intermediary, the night Lindbergh and Condon went to a cemetery in the Bronx and paid over $50,000 ransom money.

Lindbergh had been relating how he and Condon had gone to the Bronx cemetery to pay over the money and how he had heard a man talking to Condon in the cemetery.

Walking close to the stand, Attorney General Wilentz asked:

"You remember that voice?"

"Yes."

"To whom did the voice belong?"

"Hauptmann."

The Colonel almost shouted the name.

Hauptman stirred nervously but did not move much, except for his eyes, which shifted rapidly as though to catch the reaction to Lindbergh's damning testimony.

It was one of the most dramatic moments of the trial.

The courtroom was hushed.

Wilentz spoke up:

HAUPTMANN DEFENSE FACES BIG TEST

Must Decide On Tactics Of Trial

Cross-Examination Of Col. Lindbergh To Provide Showdown In Case

MRS. LINDBERGH IS NOT CROSS-EXAMINED

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service
Science Writer.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 4. —The test of the counsel for the defense in the Hauptmann trial will come today.

Smart or faulty as the defense tactics may be, they will be revealed when Attorney General Wilentz finishes questioning Colonel Lindbergh and turns the lone eagle over to the defense for cross-examination.

Chief Counsel Edward J. Reilly then will have to make the most momentous decision of his long career as a defender of accused characters.

Makes Promises.

Reilly has told dozens of reporters that he will "smear" the reputations of members of the Lindbergh "household". He has indicated in no uncertain terms that he might subject Colonel Lindbergh to a hot grilling. Over a Newark radio station Reilly last night renewed these promises.

In the proceedings yesterday Reilly demonstrated good judgment in refusing to cross-examine Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, although her testimony and her magnificent behavior on the witness stand promised to become one of the major decisive factors in the case.

The question today is: Will Reilly start keeping some of his formal promises to the press and to Mr. and Mrs. Hauptmann? The noted Brooklyn criminal lawyer was hired to replace Lawyer James Fawcett solely on the basis of his reputation to make and keep promises to dig up and present defense evidence of a sensational sort. To date he has made plenty of promises to produce this sort of defense evidence, both to the press and to Mr. and Mrs. Hauptmann.

Showdown Today.

His showdown come, then, today—when Col. Lindbergh is placed at his mercy in full view of the world public.

Mrs. Lindbergh was absent from the court today, but the memory of her slight, trim presence on the witness stand probably never will fade from the grateful minds of the 12 jurors hearing the evidence in the celebrated trial.

The testimony of Mrs. Lindbergh was given in an abashed, genuinely modest, genuinely gracious manner as she identification of each of the distinctive garments worn by her murdered infant son, made a terrific impression on the jury and the audience alike.

Col. Lindbergh's continuance today was clear, honest, direct and obviously earnest testimony made a similar impression on the talesmen.

SUPERVISORS IN CONVENTION

responsible for the maintenance of our roads in the townships," said the sheriff. "Speaking for myself and for my deputies I want to thank you for the co-operation you have extended us in the past year. In return I want to say that our office and all the offices of this county are open to you for service whenever you need it."

Response By Fulkman.

Doris L. Fulkman responded for the convention and expressed the pleasure of the convention at the welcoming speech. He commented somewhat upon the need for better road maintenance and said that supervisors should be elected from districts with dirt roads.

The main speech of the day was delivered by H. A. Thompson, state secretary of the Supervisors association. His address consisted of a lengthy, bitter criticism of the present state administration, a charge that John A. MacSparran had deliberately misled the grange in their attitude on the Williamson bill and an outline of the legislative program of the association in the coming year.

Thompson attacked the Parkinson bill, which was a compromise bill, and said that the Williamson bill, which was vetoed, would have meant a reduction in the local communities. He charged the state highway department with extravagances in maintenance, and the use of politics in its operation. He urged the return to township supervisors of part of the highway funds for maintenance of the roads and said that an amendment would be presented to the General Assembly in the present session prescribing such action in the Parkinson bill. His address was mostly a denunciation of the methods employed by the state highway department and the prophecy that the new administration would be friendly to the supervisors and the local community governments.

Several committees were appointed this morning. On the resolutions committee will be John B. Shaw of Washington township, Charles D. Miller of Hickory township and H. A. Leslie of Little Beaver township.

Tellers will be W. S. K. Weigle of Scott township, C. O. McConnell of Washington township and J. P. Smith of Wilmington township. This afternoon officers are to be elected and resolutions adopted.

HUGE PROGRAM OF WORK RELIEF TO BE PROVIDED

sage, the president confined himself to a general outline of what the administration proposes to do to better the lot of the economically forgotten individual. Later messages will divulge the details.

To Create Security

The broad objective of the government's effort, he said, is to create security for the individual—security of a livelihood, security against "the major hazards of life," and the security of decent homes. To that end recommendations will be made on unemployment insurance, old age pensions, and similar social betterment undertakings.

But for the immediate present, Mr. Roosevelt said, the federal government is determined to end direct relief, which has cost more than two billion dollars, and to initiate a program of emergency public employment, which will put people back to work without interfering with private employment.

Must Quiet Relief

"The federal government," he said, "must and shall quit this business of relief."

The doling out of dollars and of food baskets to the destitute, he described as contributing to "spiritual and moral disintegration."

"To dole out relief in this way," he said, "is to administer a narcotic, a subtle destroyer of the human spirit. It is inimical to the dictates of sound policy. It is a violation of the traditions of America.

"Work must be found for able-bodied but destitute workers."

Nor can the federal government, he continued, go on paying real wages for raking leaves in the park, or cutting grass for a few hours a week. That, he indicated, is merely charity in another form.

To Provide Real Work

He estimated there are now about 5,000,000 unemployed workers on federal relief rolls. A million and a half of these, he said, belong to groups that in the past have been cared for locally, and he declared they must be returned to that care.

With the other three and a half million, he said, the situation is different. They are the real victims of the national depression, and the federal government is the only governmental agency capable to deal with their predicament.

"We have assumed this task," he said, "and we shall not shrink from it in the future. It is a duty dictated by every intelligent consideration of national policy to ask you (the Congress) to make it possible for the United States to give employment to all of these three and one-half million employable people, now on relief, pending their absorption in a rising tide of private employment."

Enlarged Plan

To this end, Mr. Roosevelt proposed that all emergency public works should be united in a "single new and greatly enlarged plan".

By such a plan, he said, the FERA can be superseded by a co-ordinated authority charged with orderly liquidation of relief, and with substituting a national chart for giving out work.

The practical principles which should govern this new program of public works employment, the President enumerated as follows:

1. All work undertaken should be useful . . . in the sense that it affords permanent improvement in living conditions, or that it creates future wealth for the nation.

2. Wages should be larger than the present dole, but still not so large as to encourage workers to reject private employment.

3. Only projects should be undertaken which are certain to employ the greatest numbers.

Self-Liquidating

4. Preference should be given those projects which are self-liquidating in the sense that there is a reasonable expectation of the government getting its money back in the future.

5. The projects should be so planned as to compete as little as possible with private enterprises.

6. Work should be so planned as to take care of those now on relief rolls, but with an eye to tapering off proportionately as private employers are able to provide jobs.

7. Projects should be so located where they will serve the greatest unemployment needs.

The President said he had "very definite convictions" as to the amount of money necessary to carry out this program, which he would report in the budget message.

"But I assure you," he said, "they will be within the sound credit of the government."

Some Projects

As coming within the scope of this broad program, the President mentioned slum clearance in the great cities, rural housing of various kinds, rural electrification, reforestation of the nation's watersheds, prevention of soil erosion, highway improvements, elimination of grade crossings, and extension of the CCC work.

The recovery efforts of the past year, the President said, have made steady progress along the road to national recovery, "under the framework and in the spirit and intent of the constitution." This was an obvious reply to some of the administration's constitutional critics, and it was followed by an equally obvious warning:

Issues Warning

"Let him who, for speculative profit or partisan purpose, ... take heed before he assumes responsibility for any act which slows our onward steps."

Almost all the President's message was devoted to a survey of national economic and social conditions, and throughout it he repeatedly emphasized that the primary duty of government is to provide security for the individual.

He dismissed foreign relations with a brief two paragraphs, without mentioning the European debt defaults, the abrogation of the naval treaties, or any of the other important international problems now worrying the State Department.

He did say:

No Ground For Worry

"I cannot with candor tell you that general international relationships outside our borders are improved. On the surface of things many old jealousies are resurrected, old passions aroused, new strivings for armament and power, in more than one land, rear their ugly heads."

But, he continued:

"There is no ground for apprehension that our relations with any nation will be otherwise than peaceful.

"Nor is there ground for doubt that the people of most nations seek relief from the threat and burden attaching to the false theory that extravagant armament cannot be reduced and limited by international accord."

He concluded with a look backward at 1934 with satisfaction, and a look forward into 1935 with optimism.

Bravely, she went through it all, toying with the thumb guard lost from the suit by the fleeing kidnaper, identifying nursery pictures, gazing at a photograph of the murdered child and passing it back with a smothered sob.

English Birth Rate At Record Low

Death Ratio For Great Britain Also Shows Small Increase

By NEWELL ROGERS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON—England's birth rate hit an all-time low in 1933, while the death rate went up slightly.

Figures just issued by the Registrar-General for England and Wales give the birthrate as 14.4 per 1,000.

Deaths were 12.3 per 1,000, 0.3 per cent above 1932.

Years in which Death's hand weighs lightest in England range between nine and fourteen. Whereas 36,960 babies died in their first year of life, only 971 children nine years old were lost. Similar low totals are maintained up to 14.

Cancer claimed more lives in 1933 than the year before, but tuberculosis yielded a new low record.

England's suicide death rate was 140 per million, a decrease of three per million on the record high rate of 1932.

Road accidents due to mechanical vehicles showed an increase.

Reilly created a sensation when he asked if Lindbergh knew of any relations between Miss Sharpe and Whately. Both Miss Sharpe and Whately are dead. Lindbergh denied he knew anything about their activities in their "off moments."

Lindbergh was still under cross-examination when the luncheon recess was declared until 1:45 p. m. Just before the adjournment Reilly asked the colonel if he sought to stop the authorities from investigating the crime.

A.—No. I did not.

Q.—The state police were in charge of the case, were they?

A.—Well, there was some dispute at first as to who was in charge. There were police from Newark, Jersey City, and others But the governor later put the state police in charge of the case.

MADE IT STRIP POKER

(International News Service)

BOSTON—It was not "strip poker" until holdup men came. The game was on at 3 a. m. in Cambridge, when three holdup men, who had previously drained the gasoline from an automobile parked outside, to forestall pursuit, entered the building and took the players' trousers and $72.

Deaths of the Day

William McConnell.

William McConnell, aged 58, a former resident of New Castle, passed away in his home in Pittsburgh on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. He left New Castle three years ago, after having been a resident here for a number of years, during which time he was employed with the American Can company.

He was a brother of H. A. McConnell of Galbreath avenue.

The body will be brought here for burial in Oak Park cemetery Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, when services will take place at the grave.

Time Of Funeral

Funeral services for James Vincent Hoover, 834 South Mill street, will be held Monday at 10 a. m. from the Ritchie Funeral home, South Mill street, and interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Hoover had been a resident of New Castle the past eighteen years and had been a carpenter by trade. He is survived by one son, James, Jr.

Mrs. Maude Penney

Mrs. Maude Penney, aged 72, Hamilton street extension, died at her home at 4:30 this morning following a four weeks' illness.

She was born in New Castle May 6, 1862, the daughter of Henry and Elizabeth Smith Zimmerman, and had resided in Andover, Ohio, for some time. She was a member of the Andover Methodist church.

Surviving is a brother, Sylvester Zimmerman, besides a number of nieces and nephews.

Robert E. Skillen.

Robert E. Skillen, aged 66 years, died at his residence, New Wilmington R. D. 1, at 2:20 a .m. today after a long illness.

Mr. Skillen was well known and highly respected. He had lived in the New Wilmington vicinity for 17 years and was a member of the New Wilmington U. P. church. He held membership also in the New Kensington Masonic lodge.

He was born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, on March 8, 1868, the son of James E. and Rachel Sands Skillen. He went into contracting as a trade and continued that work for a great many years.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Stewart Skillen; four sons, James M. of Sunbury, Pa., Albert L. of New Wilmington, Robert E. and Lawrence at home; one daughter, Kathryn, at home; two brothers, James A. and Frank K., both of Pittsburgh, and two sisters, Mrs. Anna Shearer of New Kensington and Mrs. W. R. Anderson of New Wilmington.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the residence, with Rev. Ralph Neale, pastor of the New Wilmington U. P. church, in charge. Interment will be made in Neshannock cemetery.

T. Wright Montgomery.

Word has been received here of the death of T. Wright Montgomery of 412 Brilliant avenue, Aspinwall, which occurred Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie Balmer Montgomery. He was a member of New Castle lodge F. and A. M. of this city.

Funeral services will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Aspinwall U. P. church. The body will lie in state in the church from 1 to 2 o'clock. Interment will take place in Allegheny cemetery.

RIGHT INTO LAPS

(International News Service)

BROCKTON, Mass.—Capturing an 11-point buck deer without firing a single shot was accomplished by Horace Standish and a party of friends while hunting in the Cape Cod district. The buck ran right into their range and dropped. It had escaped after being shot by another hunter and had ran itself out. The other hunter didn't show up.

Store Lights For Next Year

Christmas Decorations Are Being Saved For Future Use By Merchants

With the Christmas holidays over, the Christmas lighting decorations, which were placed in the business section of the city by the cooperation of the business men, have been taken down and are being stored.

The barrels are being dried out and will be put away for use next year, as well as the strings of lights which were used on the trees.

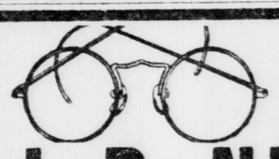

Some of the merchants removed the lights themselves and are storing them, and these will be charged against them next year, Chairman Shenkan stated. Those who removed the lights in front of their stores will have to use their own lights next year, or furnish new ones, it was decided at a meeting of the merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices the Christmas lighting project was conducted.

HYPNOTIC BURGLAR

(International News Service)

CANTON, O.—Believe it or not. A woman entered the home of Amelia Shendia here, hypnotized her, and then ransacked the house, Mrs. Shendia reported to police. Included among the missing articles were a rug, dress, scarf, a man's shirt, and a silk handkerchief.

Until recently, the laurel has been used extensively for Christmas greens, but as the conservation movement has become strong, its use has been more or less discontinued, because the flower buds are already formed at this time, and are destroyed if the branches are cut. A good substitute is the evergreen huckleberry, which is being used a great deal. Any plants which retain their foliage in spite of the rigors of winter, would be satisfactory.

MEET WINTER WITH A SMILE

From Official Bulletin of Pennsylvania State Department of Health.

TO MANY persons, winter represents the peak season for "bridges," parties, book and magazine reading—and body coddling. Bitterly complaining of excessive temperatures in the not distant past, they step up the heat to eighty degrees or more and complacently bake in a Palm Beach atmosphere.

Winter thus becomes the open season for pale faces, pale nerves and pale living, the first duly disguised by the feminine contingent with drug store make shifts, but there just the same.

It is indeed strange how men and women who a few months ago enthusiastically bronzed themselves to an aboriginal tan by fanatically worshipping the outdoors, now are content to live the synthetic existence represented by the hibernating habits of the multitude.

Thus, leading a cream puff existence, they toast themselves, live the life of an exaggerated softie—and complain when they are captured by a cold, or laid low by the dangerous pneumoccus germ.

It should be understood that the debilitating effects of hibernation represent a most effective method of reducing natural resistance to disease organisms ever willing to become one's guests and thus effect one's ruin.

But quite aside from the possible illness and premature mortality dangers that are involved in the overheating practice, is the lack-lustre life which inevitably results. That abundant vitality, which in the majority of instances must be reasonably worked for to be achieved, gets little chance to maintain its summer quality through the winter-shy attitude of thousands.

It is too bad that luxury has been carried so far. Deep cushioned chairs, a soft glowing light and a good book, not to mention the other indoor allurements of the frigid season, are attractive of course. And one by no means needs to sacrifice the real enjoyment to be derived from them. It is an excessive fondness to the exclusion of the outdoor possibilities and pleasures at which this preachment is aimed.

For, after all, Old Man Winter is a magnificent fellow. His sharp blasts, his exhilarating air, his snow, ice and even his low temperatures, are laden with the priceless gifts of vim, vigor and vitality—all to be had merely for the taking.

Why not step up to him during December, January, February and March with outstretched hands? Refuse to crawl into the bear's cave Meet the Old Man daily face to face. Walk a mile or so with him. Enjoy his woods, if they are near enough to you. In short, make him your pal. Therein lies one of the secrets of abounding health.

THE COURTS AS POLITICAL SPOILS

New England is regarded as the home of conservatism, but if the revolutionary actions of the Rhode Island Democrats are to be taken as a standard the radicals of the South and the West will have to look to their laurels.

They had elected their state ticket, all but a majority of the senate. They obtained the balance of power in that body by the simple expedient of barring two Republican members when the oath of office was being administered. Having gained control, they proceeded to oust all of the members of the State Supreme Court under the ancient law permitting the removal of judges "without cause." The New Year's celebration was brought to a joyous conclusion by deposing scores of Republicans from state boards and commissions.

The wholesale removal of officials under the guise of reorganization is doubtful politics. Violent changes often bring equally violent reactions. But there can be no difference of opinion regarding the high-handed removal of the entire State Supreme Court. It verges on anarchy and is indefensible in a country governed by law and the constitution, asserts the Philadelphia Inquirer. The Democrats defend their action on the ground that the Republicans had made the court a partisian body. They should explain how their action in making the court their football has helped the situation.

It will be strange if the court ouster is not brought before the United States Supreme Court. The Democrats probably would claim that they had only followed the letter of the law, but in this case surely the spirit as well as the letter should be observed. Political spoils must stop short of the courts if democratic government is to survive.

HOLDING ATTENTION OF NATION

Attention of the United States is today irresistibly drawn to the small town of Flemington, N. J., where Bruno Richard Hauptmann is being tried on charges of kidnaping and murdering the young son of Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh. Our system of dispensing justice has many faults, but it cannot be said that an accused person ever is denied a fair trial. And that is quite different from the situation in some countries where secret trials are sometimes held, without the defendants being permitted counsel or the right of appeal.

No crime within recent years has aroused the public's ire as much as the killing of the Lindbergh baby. The murder of the innocent child, in large degree, was responsible for the wave of indignation which swept over the country and which resulted in a determined campaign against all forms of major law violations. Sympathy of the nation goes out to the Lindberghs, as all the details of the fiendish crime again are being bared by the trial of Hauptmann.

Old man Depression is weakening at the knees and in other ways showing signs of inability to keep up with the procession.

It must at least be said for the chap who stole the lightning rods from the top of the Washington Monument that he aimed high.

From many viewpoints the most appealing of jobs is that of an economist, who doesn't have to be right, and, as a matter of fact, seldom is.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

"WHO DO YOU THINK YOU ARE?"

YOU BUMP into that glum young fellow standing on the corner, and before you can open your mouth to say you are sorry, he turns on you and snarls:

"Say, who do you think you are, anyway?"

And there's a puzzler for you. There's a question, and how are you going to answer it?

You're the man who brings the milk, you're the girl behind the perfume counter, you're the little red-headed fellow with four children and a nice wife, you're that nice wife who dreamed of a husband six feet tall with a commanding air, and you find yourself married, instead, to the little red-headed man whose heart is as big as his head.

You're just one of the crowd, only a little different from everybody else, but the difference is the most important thing in the world. That's who YOU are—but how can you explain it to a snarling young fellow on the corner?

You've got ancestors, YOU have! All kinds of ancestors. As good as his any day, and as bad, too. Some were bold, some were timid. Some took splendid chances, some played safe as mussels on a rock. Some were parasites, some paid their own way all the time. Some saved their money and their lives; some thought nothing more precious than their honor.

Some were leaders, some were flattering courtiers. Some thought, some jested. Some were silent and sad all through their lives, some laughed their way gallantly through life. Some were the salt and some were the bitter lees of mankind. Some suffered long and bravely, some sniveled and whimpered at the first blow of fate.

Some accepted and some refused. And some feared death and some feared life itself. But ALL were your ancestors and all gave a little of themselves to you.

Down the long, hard trail that leads from the dark mountains to the sunny sea they packed their way, singing or sighing, despairing or glad with hope—and came at last to YOU! And if you ever get that surly young fellow in a corner, you can tell him just who YOU are—who HE is, too.

REMEMBER WHAT YOU HEAR

You had a glorious vacation last summer, heard a goodly number of fine and interesting speakers, and came home happy and satisfied.

You got a fine tan, plenty of fresh air and exercise that made you tingle with pep and energy, but there is one thing that bores you.

Of all the helpful suggestions you heard in the daily talks and lectures, you cannot remember a single thing.

You rave about the different viewpoints you got, the inspiration it was to hear some great men speak, but you can't remember a thing to tell your friends.

Do you call that being intelligent?

You devoured much, but you did not digest any of it.

You say it is merely that you do not recall their words.

What about their ideas, couldn't you express some of them in your own words—have they had no effect upon your present or future life?

Why didn't you take a few notes for future reference?

You hear others talk very interestingly of the very men and lectures that you heard, and while you recognized what they were talking about, you could not have brought to mind the thoughts your friends remembered.

Begin to practice charging your mind with at least one thought that you hear from each person you hear, so that you never forget it.

THE FORGOTTEN BOW-TIE MAN

For men who wear
The four-in-hand,
With loving care
The ties are planned.
And they may choose
To drape their necks
All sorts of hues
And dots and specks.

Their wives may stand
Before the racks
The four-in-hand
Is there in stacks
In boxes laid
On bars and rings
Will be displayed
The newest things.

I do not ask
Devoted care,
Nor seek to bask
Where all is fair.
One thought I voice
And dare to pen,
Why give no choice
To bow-ti men?

Forgotten quite!
No salesman shows
A new delight
In bat-wing bows.
No silk is loomed
For bows in lots.
They keep us doomed
To polka dots.

Correctly Speaking—

After an interjection which is intended to be only mildly exclamatory, use a comma rather than an exclamation point.

What a hard world! We can't even have friendship without all the bother of deserving it.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 4:48. Sun rises tomorrow 7:22.

This column has to be filled up every day, so it's no use for the Hints and Dints man to make any resolution for doing any less work—and we have some other things to do besides writing this column. We have been writing it for over thirty years and some say it gets rottener every year.

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES

The usher at a wedding approached a cold, dignified looking woman.

"Are you a friend of the groom?" he asked.

"I should say not," came the indignant reply. "I'm the bride's mother."

Sugarcoat a scoundrel with money and the world will swallow him with out a gurgle.

All those Democrats who get those eight or ten thousand dollars a year jobs in Harrisburg will think the depression is over as far as they are concerned, any how—and there are a lot of those high priced jobs to be given out.

A lotta ladies now detour around the eats,
Because they think that being fat's a curse;
But if they ask for our opinion we'll tell 'em
We think that being hungry is a darn sight worse.

"So's your old man."

"You're all wet."

"Applesauce."

The farmer who can't raise something else has a hard time raising money.

"The night has a thousand eyes —" began the poetically inclined young man.

"My gracious," interrupted the object of his adoration, "let me see if my hat is on straight and my nose powered."

There are really only two great disappointments in life—not getting what you want and getting it.

The fellow who started the new year with no idea of trying to do anything for himself will not get any further than what some one gives to him. As long as there is land that is not being worked there should be no real reason for people going hungry—but it takes work to get anything out of land, which some birds don't like to do.

A REGRET WITHOUT ANY

You say you're jumping off the dock
On Saturday at four o'clock
And that you wish I might be there . . .
Well, since for weddings I don't care—
(I'd rather—much—see someone shot)—
I'm really glad that I cannot.
I hope that you don't get me wrong—
For matrimony I am strong;
But wedding ceremonies still
Give me a most dreadful chill.
It seems you've so much time to think
While you are standing on the brink,
And, even now, it scares me stiff
Just to think about—what if . . .
What if you've made a sorry choice? . . .
What if the groom should lose his voice?
Or what if he has failed to bring
Or has misplaced the wedding ring?
What if someone should up and say
You cannot marry him that day? . . .
So many thoughts go through my head
Whenever I see someone wed,
That, since for you I deeply care,
I don't regret I can't be there!

FAIR ENOUGH

A little boy in a car kept sniffing and rubbing his nose. A lady sitting beside him asked:

MOMENT INTERLUDE

A ship of cloud fades down the west
With sunset dripping from the prow,
And sleepy doves drift in to rest
Along the swaying cedar bough.

And brush aside the sweat that stings

A far-off shadow-mountain swings
The moon upon its shoulder now,
While waters, like a flight of wings,
Drift silver down the furrowed brow.

Lloyd George Speaks.
Attacks Military Blunders.
New Home For King George.

Central Press

Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—An interesting thing is occurring in England. David Lloyd George, wartime Liberal prime minister, is becoming somewhat of an idol of the Labor party. His own Liberal party has frittered to nothing.

When Lloyd George denounced the Nationalist government for the inadequacy of its bill to relieve depressed areas, Laborites (whom the Conservatives term Socialists) cheered Lloyd George.

Said the former prime minister:

"The age of miracles is past. You cannot feed the multitude with two commissioners and five sub-commissioners . . .

"The new commissioners are being sent on their apostolic mission, not without purse and scrip, but pretty nearly that—just with a little pretty cash to deal with a problem costing $500,000,000 a year."

The sum appropriated by parliament for relief of the distressed areas was $10,000,000. An American congressman would be ashamed even to vote for such a small sum, Lloyd George had said previously.

MORE WAR ERRORS

The fifth and last volume of Lloyd George's memoirs are feared in official English circles.

The war-time prime minister has said he will tell of colossal blunders by high army commands, costing tens of thousands of lives needlessly.

Even a prime minister cannot control a militaristic machine, or its stupidities, once a war gets under way.

NEW HOUSE FOR KING

Since we are speaking of England, we shall tell of that new house to be built and given to King George (and his successors) by the tradesmen to the royal family.

The London Daily Express gives this interesting account of this unque gift:

"A wonder house, comprising everything that is most modern in design, construction and equipment, is to be the jubilee gift of the Royal Warrant Holders' Association to the King.

"It will be known as "The King's House.'

"Famous architects are to compete for the honor of designing the house. Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, president of the Institution of British Architects, will advise on the design to be selected.

"The association will provide an endowment fund to relieve the property of any charges in perpetuity.

"The king has approved the selection of a site, which is on the south side of London.

"Sir Duncan Watson, president of the association,said, in an interview last night.

" 'The house is going to be within reach of London, in a charming spot, presented by a peer who is associated with the Royal Warrant Holders' Association.

" 'Everything is to be of the finest design and construction.

" 'The question of cost really does not arise. The house will be the last word in efficiency and equipment.

" 'The house will be absolutely at the disposal of the king, so far as the tenant is concerned.

" 'The position has been specially selected so that in the future it cannot be encroached on, nor will it be possible for the view from the residence to be disturbed.

" 'It is hoped that the foundation stone will be laid early in the new year.'

"When the proposal to build the house first became known, many offers of land were received by the association from well-known people, including a number of peers.

"The Royal Warrant Holders' Association consists of tradesmen to the court. It has a membership of about 1,500.

"This year it commemorated its centenary.

"A small news agent's shop has the right to use the royal arms, and among other traders who hold the warrant are a lamprey pie maker and a 'horse milliner', whose privilege is to supply rosettes and ribbons for the decoration of the royal bridge."

INSIDE ON YUGOSLAVIA

The "inside" story on the expulsion of Hungarians by Yugoslavia also is given by the London Daily express in this frank dispatch by a correspondent in Belgrade:

"Prince Paul of Yugoslavia, chief of the council of regency, has ordered the expulsions of Hungarians to stop at once.

"This bold and dramatic order, I understand, is the direct result of advice from the British government.

"Prince Paul returned to Belgrade yesterday, after attending the royal wedding in London.

"He was well pleased with his trip, which was as much political as social. He knew that it had strengthened outside sympathy with Yugoslavia.

"On his return to Belgrade, however, he found that all the ground he had won had been lost again.

"During his absence the Yugoslav government, without consulting him, had ordered the deportation of 3,000 Hungarians from former Hungarian territory.

"An additional 20,000 Hungarians were daily expecting the dreaded order to leave.

"This action lost Yugoslavia the sympathy won by Prince Paul in London.

"The British government unofficially informed Prince Paul of this. They advised him to calm down his government and to stop the expulsions.

"Prince Paul acted with dictatorial speed. He immediately ordered that the expulsions should stop.

"But he was too late to prevent the deportation of a last batch of 259 men, women and children who left Horgos, near the frontier, yesterday afternoon.

"A pall of fear hangs over the whole population on both sides of the frontier.

"The simple peasants living along the border have no quarrel with each other. They fear they are being driven by their governments into a conflict which they do not want."

FRIDAY, JAN. 4

History Up-To-Date, Jan. 4, 1493—In the Nina, smallest and only remaining one of his three ships, Christopher Columbus sailed from Hispaniola (Haita) on the return voyage of his first attempt to find a western route to India.

He was able to get back to Palos before the arrival of Martin Pinson, one of his partners and financial backers in the expedition, and thus was first to claim in Spain the honor of discovering "the eastern coast of Asia."

On the way over, the most valuable record in the history of New World exploration, Columbus' day-by-day account of the expedition written for his sovereigns, was tossed into the sea in a cask when it was feared the ship would founder. It was not recovered.

Jan. 4, 1752—The frank Pennsylvania Gazette of the 46-year old free lover, Benjamin Franklin, published details of a nudist wedding at Frederick, Md. Excerpts:

"A couple with their guests came to the house of a reverend clergyman late in the evening after he had been sometime in bed and desired to be married. He, willing to oblige them, got up and dressed himself in order to perform the ceremony, but the bridegroom, having imbibed a notion that if he married a woman with any thing he should be obliged to pay all her debts, and as she came from the province of New Jersey he was doubtful about her circumstances.

"The obliging bride, to remove all incumbrances, stripped and two women held a sheet between her and the clergyman while he performed his office, and she, having forgot her cap at undressing, it came to her mind in the midst of the ceremony and she pulled that off too and flung it on the bed."

So you're wrong if you believe that nudist weddings are something new!

Jan. 4, 1872—Arbor Day was born. At a meeting of the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture, Julius Sterling Morton, 40, newspaper editor, introduced a resolution setting aside a day for tree planting. Thousands of trees "lifting their leafy arms to pray" in the once woodless prairies of the west, are Morton monuments today; and

She was the gushing type of newly-rich American who had never been in Europe before. The first time she went out with a guide in Switzerland, he answered her questions patiently, but eventually he tired.

"Ah," exclaimed the woman, pointing to a mass of broken rocks scattered about the base of a mountain, "and where did all those come from?"

"They were brought down the mountain by glaciers, madam," was the answer.

"And where are the glaciers now?"

"They've gone back up the mountain," sighed the guide, "to fetch some more rocks."

Peter's Conversion And Call

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Mark 1:17—"And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men."

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for January 6 is John 1:29-42; Mark 1:14-39, the Golden Text being Mark 1:17: "And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me and I will make you to become fishers of men. This is the first of a three-month course of lessons on "The Life and Letters of Peter.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

Aside from the name of Christ no name occurs more often in the gospel records than the name of Peter. He is easily one of the Bible's most fascinating characters, often right, often wrong, but always interesting Jesus' first contact with him came at the very opening of the Saviour's public ministry when John the Baptist unselfishly turned his disciples over to Jesus as their Messiah saying "Behold, the Lamb of God." One of these disciples was Andrew, and to him we are indebted for Simon Peter. For of him we read: "He findeth first his own brother Simon, and saith unto him, We have found the Messiah ....He brought him unto Jesus." Andrew was a real brother! And the most brotherly deed he ever performed was when he told his brother Simon of his new-found Saviour and brought him to Jesus.

Simon Becomes Peter

Jesus saw in Simon a diamond in the rough. He who "knew what was in man" saw tremendous possibilities in this rough impetuous fisherman of Galilee, and gave him a new name symbolic of the new creation he was about to evolve from the raw material. Andrew brought him: "Jesus looked upon him, and said, Thou are Simon, the Son of John, thou shalt be called Cephas (which is by interpretation Peter") meaning Rock. Thus is always is with the eyes of love: they see us not as others see us, or even as we see ourselves, but as we may yet be by the grace and help of God. And best of all, Peter justified the phophesy of his Saviour in becoming a man or rock. Thus Jesus inspires men to become what no one else dares to dream they may be. His phophesy that Peter should be called a rock became a creative inspiration to Simon.

"Fishers of Men"

A full year after that first contact with the Saviour and their becoming disciples of his he met them again as they were plying their trade by the seashore, and called them away from their nets and boats to become "fishers of men." "And Jesus said unto them, Come, ye, after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men. And straightway they left the nets and followed." Peter and the others must be followers before they could be leaders. Christ's order is ever thus: "that they might be with him and that he might send them forth." We must first find and know Christ before we can help others to find and know him. Furthermore Christ seeks his workmen among those who are busy and which accounts for the eagerness with which they seized his challenge to give themselves fully to his service in catching men instead of fish.

Power Through Prayer

They were to follow him in busy paths. They would see him fill days and nights with an almost ceaseless ministry of teaching and healing, rebuking demons and disease in synagogue or home through the day and at evening his door yard turned into a hospital where he ministers healing and helpfulness until late into the night. How he could do it is indicated thus: "And in the morning, a great time before day, he rose up and went out, and departed into a desert place and there played." And when Peter and the others sought to bring him back he pointed them to still untouched fields awaiting them that day, and explained, "That is why I came out here." His powers and theirs must be replenished in prayer.

Carrick Youth Ends Own Life

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 4.—James P. McClellan, 19-year-old Carrick high school student, lay dead at his home today, after taking his own life, authorities said, following a quarrel with a young woman who refused to see him.

The youth ended his life by firing a bullet into his heart just after a telephone conversation with Miss Edna Bonistall, 18, whom he had known since childhood. During the conversation, Miss Bonistall said, McClellan threatened to kill himself.

F. Frank Crall, head of the history department, McKeesport, Pa., High Schools, says "your worthy column merits high praise. . . I find your Today is the Day quite useful in the history classroom." However, Mr. Crall shows us we are wrong if we believe—

That Pilgrims and Puritans were the same thing, and

That Massachusetts Bay Company was identified with the Plymouth colony. Mr. Crall explains:

"The Plymouth colony was at least eight years older than the Massachusetts Bay Company. Religiously, the two groups were somewhat different."

The Massachusettes Bay settlers, though in many things less extreme than the Pilgrims, were decided Puritans. They did not, however, wish to separate from the Church of England, earnestly as they deprecated certain forms of worship. The Pilgrims were Separatists. Independents, peculiar in their tenet that the single congregation of godly persons, however few or humble, is of right the highest ecclesiastical authority on earth. Mr. Crall adds:

"The Massachusetts colony overshadowed the Separatist colony at Plymouth in growth, influence, power and wealth, and eventually was permitted by a new royal charter of 1691, to absorb its northern neighbor." (And also Maine and Nova Scotia.)

Eckert Votes With Majority

Local Congressman's First Four Votes Are With Administration

VOTES TO AID NEW GAG RULE

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 4.—Representative Charles R. Eckert, who succeeds former Representative J. Howard Swick, stood by the administration during the first four votes had following his swearing in as a member of the House of Representatives this week.

When the House named Representative Byrns as speaker and Representative Bankhead as majority floor leader, Representative Eckert voted for both men. He also voted twice with his leaders on the question of amending the rule whereby a House bill may be called up for consideration. In the past such a petition could be sponsored by 145 House members, but on the first day this session the House passed a resolve altering this rule so that a majority of members must sign such a discharge petition before it becomes effective.

Mr. Eckert twice voted with Democratic leaders when they successfully maneuvered through the resolution making the change.

DEFENSE COUNSEL FIRES QUESTIONS AT LINDBERGH

said he didn't recall doing that and neighbors had access to his grounds.

Q. Did you ever hear of any hostility to you in that neighborhood.

A. No.

Q. When did you first occupy your Hopewell home?

A. Fall or early winter of 1931.

Q. The baby was born then?

A. Yes.

Q. Colonel, where did you obtain your butler.

A. We had already obtained Mr. and Mrs. Whately from Princeton.

Q. From what agency.

Here Wilentz jumped to his feet shouting

"I object. It's not material.

"It certainly is," answered Reilly. "I want the background of everybody in the house that night."

The court permitted him to answer.

"I don't recall the agency," said Lindbergh.

Reilly asked if the Whatelys came into Lindbergh's employment before Betty Gow, the nurse, was engaged.

"Yes."

Whately Dead

Q. Whately is dead since the crime?

A. Yes. I think he died in 1933. He died in a hospital. He lived with us seven or eight years.

Lindbergh said Betty Gow was "recommended to us".

Asked if he made any effort to check her background, Lindbergh replied:

"I don't think so, beyond Mrs. Lindbergh and myself talking to her."

Lindbergh said he did not know whether she had any brothers. He had heard she had two brothers.

Q. Did you know she had a brother who was in trouble in New Jersey.

A—No.

Q—Didn't you make any effort to find out the background and antecedents of the people in your house that night?

A—I helped the police.

Q—Colonel, you're a man of the world. You must know police aren't infallible?

A—I think we have a very good police.

Burst Of Applause

This reply brought a stifled burst of applause from the spectators.

Reilly reminded Lindbergh he understood Mrs. Lindbergh to have said it was Lindbergh's habit to spend week-ends at Hopewell.

"On and off," replied Lindbergh.

Asked if he had spent the week-end prior to the kidnaping on March 1, 1932, there Lindbergh answered: "yes."

Q—And you think we have good federal police, department of justice men?

A—I think they are very good, too.

Q—Isn't it true no department of justice agent has ever seen those ransom notes?

A—Oh, I don't think that's right!

Q—Isn't it true Colonel Schwarzkopf of the state police of New Jersey has been in complete charge at all times?

A—Yes, but others have worked with him.

Names Federal Men

Reilly asked if Lindbergh could give him the name of any federal agent who arrived after the kidnaping. Lindbergh said: "Chief of Internal Revenue Bureau Irey, A Mr. Madden of Chicago, and a Mr. Wilson."

Under further cross-examination, Lindbergh insisted it was not true department of justice agents had not been allowed to see the ransom notes.

Q—On this particular week-end (of the kidnaping) you decided to stay on in Hopewell over the week-end?

A—Yes. The baby had a cold and we didn't want to move him Tuesday (the day of the kidnaping.)

Q—This was unusual. You usually came back to Englewood, didn't you?

A—Yes.

Q—(Loudly) Well, the outside world did not know of your movements, did they?

A—(A quiet smile on his face) No.

POINTS OF INTEREST AT SCENE OF HAUPTMANN TRIAL

Attention of the world turns to the little town of Flemington, N. J., as the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, charged with the murder of the Lindbergh baby gets under way.

FRIENDS OFFER KINDLY WORDS TO MRS. HAUPTMANN

Mrs. Bruno Richard Hauptmann, wife of the man on trial for the kidnap-murder of the Lindbergh baby, is consoled by friends during recess of court at Flemington, N. J.

HAUPTMANN IS IDENTIFIED BY COL. LINDBERGH

wearing glasses as a disguise, observed and listened to Hauptmann when he was in custody there.

Note Is Carried

After Dr. Condon paid over the $50,000 to the mysterious stranger in the Bronx cemetery he came back to the car and reported to Lindbergh. Condon brought Lindbergh a note.

"Did he bring this note?" asked Wilentz.

Wilentz handed the witness a letter.

"Yes."

"Then what did you do?"

"We went back to Dr. Condon's house. I made arrangements to get a plane.

"The next morning, with Colonel Breckenridge, (Lindbergh's friend) I left for Bridgeport, Conn., in the plane."

"What was the purpose of this trip in the plane?"

"We were looking for a boat which the note said would have my son. We flew around Bridgeport for over two hours. I was at the controls."

"But your search was in vain?"

"It was."

This concluded Lindbergh's direct examination and the defense took the witness over for cross-examination."

Resumes Testimony

Courtroom, Flemington, N. J., Jan. 4.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh resumed the stand today at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, accused of the kidnaping and murder of his first born son, 20-months-old Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

The colonel was continuing his direct examination. He had related the tragic events of the night of March 1, 1932, when his baby was stolen from his crib. Along about 9:15 p. m., while he was reading, Lindbergh heard a noise "like a ladder breaking." Later, Betty Gow, the nurse, came to him, greatly excited, and asked if he had the baby. Lindbergh left the room—he "knew something had gone wrong.'

This morning's session opened promptly at ten. The courtroom was jammed to the doors. The sheriff not only permitted every seat to be taken but, for the first time, there were a number of standees.

Hauptmann, looking fresh and well rested, came into the courtroom at 9:58 a. m. surrounded by guards. He quietly took his seat back of the defense counsel table.

The prisoner wore a green and white handkerchief in the breast pocket of his grey suit. He seemed more at home and glanced around the courtroom several times.

When court was called to order, the jury was polled.

Caution Photographers

Justice Thos. W. Trenchard from the bench called attention to the fact that pictures taken in the courtroom while he was on the bench had been published.

"This must not happen again," he declared. "I don't know whether my order was misunderstood or disobeyed."

A voice from the side of the courtroom said:

"I represent five picture companies and we have taken no pictures.'

Justice Trenchard stopped the speaker, saying he would hear any such discussions in chambers.

Lindbergh was recalled to the stand at 10:09 a. m.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz immediately resumed his questioning about the footprints Lindbergh said he found in the nursery.

"They were faint and yellowish as though of clay," the flyer said. "They were plain, in front of a chest of drawers."

Wilentz asked Lindbergh if he found a ladder outside the nursery window. The witnes replied he did.

"Was it strange to the house?"

"Yes, it did not belong to the house."

"Did you find a chisel too, outside the house?"

"No—but one was reported found and brought in. It was also strange to the house."

Lindbergh testified a dowell-pin he had never before seen also was found outside the house.

Wilentz then held up a yellowed letter.

"Can you identify this?" he asked.

"Yes," Lindbergh replied after studying it. "It is the third ransome note, which was mailed to Colonel Breckenridge in New York."

The note was marked for identification.

Code Group Of Merchants Meets

Take Action To Secure Payment Of Assessments On Unpaid Accounts

At a meeting this morning of the Retail Code authority for New Castle, action was taken to secure payment of the assessment under which the local enforcement committee has been operating.

Each merchant is assessed according to the number of employes he has, and in some cases it has been found that the assessments have not been paid. Under the law, unpaid assessments are to be turned over to the National Code Authority for collection, and the local authority at their meeting this morning, have extended the time for payment for a few days before the matter is refered to the National Code Authority.

December Dances Net City $278.00

Chief Of Police Presents Good Report Concerning Dances

Chief of police John F. Haven today sent to Solicitor Robert White a report stating that during December the department of police had collected $128.00, from dance permits during that month. Not all of the places where dancing was permitted sold beer.

The chief gave a clean "bill of health" to all of the 20 places and the council now, can, upon recommendation by the solicitor, return to the persons who held the dances an amount up to 90 percent of the amount paid, under the provisions of an ordinance.

From licenses granted to proprietors of the places the department net the city $150.00, which shows that during December 10 took out licenses costing $15.00, each. They will obtain no refund from this amount.

A TORTOISE "ARMY"

(International News Service)

SHANGHAI—The village of Tzehsien is alarmed by the appearance of thousands of huge tortoises. The creatures are said to crawl out from a large cave in orderly rows in the morning and to return to their den in an equally orderly manner at dusk. Superstitious Chinese farmers are burning incense praying that the tortoises, recognized by the Chinese as "deities in control of the drought and flood," will bring about a good harvest.

Free Silver Bill Introduced Today

Free Silver Bill Provides That Treasury Maintain Ratio Of 16 To 1

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—A bill for the free coinage of silver at the old Bryan ratio of 16 to 1 and an anti-lynching bill featured a host of measures introduced today in the senate.

The free silver bills provided that the secretary of the treasury should maintain silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 against gold.

Senator Costigan (D) of Colorado, introduced the anti-lynching bill. It would heavily penalize state officials and counties in which lynchings occurred and calls for payment of indemnities to the families of victims.

Further Plans For Inspection

Troop Will Drill In Armory This Evening In Anticipation Of Federal Event

CAPT. LYONS TO BE INSPECTOR

Plans for the annual federal inspection of Troop F, 103rd Cavalry, will be furthered at the drill session this evening, when the boys will get down to business for the finishing touches prior to the annual event which will take place on January 17.

Capt. Lyons, of Grove City, who is instructor for the 112th Infantry, has been designated as the inspecting officer. Capt. Harvey G. Bintim, commander of Toop F is hopeful of having the federal inspection date changed to January 18, the regular drill night of the troop, so that it will fall in regular schedule.

This gives the troop two weeks to prepare for the event, and they expect to have their drill formations perfected and their equipment in excellent condition for the inspection this year, in order to maintain the high record which has been attained in the past.

Name Chairman For Poppy Day

Vets Make Plans For Annual Event Preceding Memorial Day At Meeting

Past Commander A. F. Miller was named chairman of the Poppy Day, which will take place on the Saturday preceding Memorial Day, at the meeting of the Harry L. McBride post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Wednesday evening in the Legion Home.

The post also took action at the meeting last evening to assist with the drive of the V. F. W. for the payment of the adjusted compensation certificates, which will come before congress at an early date.

Plans were made to have an oyster supper in connection with the next meeting of the post on January 16.

Skaters Rescued By Police And Firemen

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 4.—The fire department was called out here yesterday to rescue five youths who had broken through ice on the Shenango river, James Gallagher 8, and John Heitz 7, first broke through.

Joseph Antill, 17, ran to their rescue and was also drenched as the ice gave way beneath him. George Morgan, an electrician, and Paul Kudelko, went to the rescue, but fared no better.

Manager A. G. Hatfield of the Western Union notified police, who with the aid of firemen, rescued the quintet from the icy bath. Except for their unexpected drenching none of the five were worse off for their experience.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For This Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer.

FACTS ON FIRST BIRTHDAY

Editor News:—

"Few of the predictions made before repeal have proved true," says David Lawrence in an article in the Evening Star of Washington. "Taxes have by no means brought in the revenue expected. Bootlegging and gangster crime have by no means been repealed. Local and state rule have not been brought about and the federal government still controls the liquor problem and is as derelict in enforcement as it was before."

Billions spent for drink—Repeal has released a flood of liquor which has increased beyond anything known in the last decade. Repeal has made liquor more easily accessible than it has ever been before, says Rev. John Haynes Holmes, noted New York minister, in an article, "One Year of Repeal", in Christian Century.

"The American consumer spent approximately $1,500,000,000 on legalized liquor in the first year of repeal," was the opinion of Ammon McClellan, executive of the League of Distilled Spirits Rectifiers. He also said "I believe a like amount or more was spent on illicit spirits, bringing the actual total well over $3,000,000,000 (N. Y. Tribune, Dec. 5).

Drunkenness a growing problem—The New York Times, which contributed greatly in bringing about repeal, admits this. The increase is estimated at 55 per cent.

An editorial in the Los Angeles Times of Nov. 6, says: "Two years ago drunkenness as a cause of crime was almost negligible, now it is responsible for 30 per cent of criminal cases in Los Angeles county superior court."

The recent biennial convention of the Federal Council of Churches went on record as unalterably opposed to the liquor traffic and heartily associates itself with the recent action of constituent denominations, which, in their recent national assemblies, have reaffirmed their uncompromising condemnation of the revitalized liquor traffic.

New Plymouths On Display Here

Will Be Shown By Several Dealers In New Castle Starting Saturday

Walter P. Chrysler today announces the 1935 Plymouths as "revolutionary new-type high-speed safety cars, expressly designed to meet modern traffic conditions."

The new cars will be on display Saturday at the Chambers Motor Co., 825 North Croton avenue; Morgan-Borrows Motor Co., 25 N. Jefferson street, and the J. R. Rick Motor Car Co., 468 East Washington street, local Plymouth dealers.

Introduced in six beautiful body types the new Plymouths, streamlined in design, have added engineering developments which today more than ever before gives emphasis to its claim of being "America's best engineered low price car."

To quickly catalog the outstanding features of the new car, the 1935 Plymouth has an 82 hoursepower engine with a compression ratio of 6.7 to 1; a torpedo-type all-steel safety body; syncro-silent transmission; a new "ride" achieved by a redistribution of weight, plus a new front spring assembly, "Floating Power" engine mountings and hydraulic brakes.

Mr. Chrysler, in announcing the new Plymouth, said that it was created to satisfy a critical need in America at the present time for safer transportation.

"Every indication points to more automobiles on the streets and highways in 1935, than at any time since 1939," he said. "And, the automobiles of today are much faster than those of six years ago. They also must be safer."

The Plymouth is presented in six body types: business coupe, two-door sedan, Deluxe rumble-seat coupe, Deluxe four-door sedan, Deluxe two-door touring sedan and Deluxe four-door touring sedan. All models have a wheelbase of 113 inches. Prices range from $565 and up, f. o. b., factory.

The local Plymouth dealers extend a cordial invitation to the public to visit their showrooms tomorrow.

Abrogation Of Gold Clause Is Defended Today

Attorney General Cummings Defends Abrogation As Saving Millions Of Dollars

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—In a new legal defense of abrogation of the gold clause in government bonds, Attorney General Cummings today filed a brief in the supreme court declaring the clause "seriously interfered" with the government's borrowing power.

If the gold clause had been maintained after devaluation, the attorney general pointed out, the cost to the government would have been enormous.

Answer Filed

"While the federal government might have devalued the dollar and for a time maintained the service on its gold-clause obligations in gold and thereafter in an amount of money sufficient to purchase gold coin of the old standard, or its equivalent by weight," Cummings said, "the income of the government would necessarily have had to be increased from taxation to meet this enhanced charge.

"Such an increase in taxes at a time when the debt burden was already disturbing the economy of the country was to have been avoided."

The brief was filed in the appeal of John M. Perry, New York lawyer, who demanded that the treasury pay bonds in gold or its equivalent of $1.69 for every $1 of the bond.

Rev. S. L. Cobb To Preach On Sunday

Will Fill Pulpit At Emmanuel Church—Welsh News Notes

By WM. A. JOHNS
(Brython)

Word has been received to the effect that the Rev. S. L. Cobb of the Harmony Baptist church of New Castle, will fill the pulpit of the Emmanuel Baptist church on Sunday evening, January 6. Also, he will give communion to members of the church. The hour is 7:30 o'clock.

Benjamin Jones of East Reynolds street, and Griffith Phillips of Lyndal street, who have been on the sick list for some time, are reported to be on the road to complete recovery.

A "Watch Party" was held at the Emmanuel Baptist church by the Willing Workers class Monday evening. The occasion was largely attended. An informal social followed the merrymaking after midnight.

The family of Llewellyn Thomas, South Mercer street, are in receipt of word that he will return home over the week end from an extensive visit with relatives and friends in Pittsburgh. He remained there over the holiday period.

Friends here, are informed that William H. Davies, of Whiting, Ind. is seriously ill. The Davies family formerly resided on Garfield avenue, New Castle, and have a host of friends who will regret learning of the news.

Miss Jane Davies, well known pianist from the city of Pittsburgh, is visiting in this vicinity for a period of several days. She was a former organist of the First Congregational church here.

James Taylor has been appointed janitor of the First Congregational church recently. He with ihs family, have taken up their new residence in the home of the church on East Reynolds street.

Florida Putting Arriving Tourists To 'Money Test'

(International News Service)

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Alarmed at the arrival of thousands of winter "visitors" without money or prospects of employment, the state is taking forceful steps to curb the flow of indigent non-residents. Nearly ten thousand jobless transients already have entered the state, a survey shows, and are proving an acute problem for officials.

Tourists on principal highways are being stopped at the state line and turned back if they are unable to show visible means of support.

"The trek of jobless to Florida to escape the rigors of a northern winter must be stopped," Gov. David Sholtz said, "for the federal emergency relief administration has discontinued funds for the erection of additional facilities to accommodate the hordes of transients, and state officials are unable to cope with the situation.

DEER HUNTING WITH LASSO

(International News Service)

LAKE VILLAGE, Ark. — When Jack Reynolds goes deer hunting he does not bother to carry a heavy rifle, but jumps on his horse and lassoes the deer and drags it home to be killed. His latest catch was a five-point buck which he dragged into a camp of hunters who were loaded down with all sorts of hunting and camping paraphernalia.

It is change that makes the evening pleasant. A man obtains it by coming home; a woman only by going somewhere.

TEACHERS FIGHT MATRIMONY BAN

Comely school teachers in Oklahoma, meeting recently in convention at Muskogee, protested the ruling that they cannot wed without jeopardizing their jobs, and were backed by Dr F E. Henzlik, dean of the College of Education at the University of Nebraska. "Marriage," says the doctor, "is still the beautiful and normal thing, and should be respected in the public schools where the leaders of tomorrow are being trained and educated." Miss Claudine Bushnell, Muskogee, inset, above, recently resigned her job to be married. Misses Emily Hughes, Marjorie Taylor and Lillian Stapler, all of Tulsa, are typical teachers who are banned from marriage for fear of losing their positions.

Program Of Republicans

Sound Money Big Feature Of 4-Point Program Being Urged

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The Republican party will seek restoration to national favor during the pending session of congress on a four-point program of fundamental issues.

This program had the endorsement today of high Republican leaders in and out of congress. It would pledge the Republicans to:

1. ..ationalism on international issues, on the debt question, on immigration and in constructing a navy second to none in the world.

2. The protective tariff, including a fight on any effort to extend the president's present power to negotiate reciprocal tariff-slashing treaties.

3. Sound money, with its coupled issues of economy in government and a balanced budget.

4. Care of war veterans, possibly even to the extent of supporting immediate payment of the bonus.

This much senate Republicans may approve at their party conference, to be held after they have digested President Roosevelt's message to congress. It already has been approved by many national figures in the party.

Chickens, Turtles Among Hobbies Of Hollywood Stars

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4.— Some screen stars have strange hobbies!

Unusual avocations are those of Marian Marsh, Douglass Montgomery and James Blakeley.

Marian has gone in for the raising of pedigreed chickens.

"All my life I'd wanted to raise and show prize poultry and unusual varieties of chickens," she said. "Now that I have a home and a back yard large enough to permit such an experiment, I'm starting."

She's having an architect design plans for an elaborate poultry house for her fowl aristocrats.

Miss Marsh revealed her favorite literature is poultry magazines and that she spends Sundays inspecting nearby chicken ranches.

Montgomery raises peacocks.

"I've filled the yard of my Pasadena home with them," he said. "Later on, after I've studied their health and habits I'm going to raise them to sell."

Blakeley, Columbia actor, has turned to turtles as a hobby. He says:

"I've even trained them so they answer to their individual names and crawl from the water into the palm of my hand."

Blakeley added that since he had started to raise and educate turtles he had received many fan letters from college girls asking for expert advice on the care and culture of the little pets.

GREEN AND MAUVE ARE FAVORITES

Green and mauve are two favorite winter colors. At the left above, is Queenie Smith, moving picture player, wearing an evening costume of green and gold, consisting of low-backed dinner frock and hip-length jacket with dark green velvet scarf. Sylvia Sidney likes mauve shades, and the costume worn by her was selected for her personal wardrobe. It is for dining, and is of wool and metal cloth. The skirt is a new shade of violet with a bluish cast. The top of the dress is the same shade in metal cloth. The jacket is wool with huge epaulets of beaver.

Harlem Section Is Under Water

Water Main Breaks In Harlem Section Of New York; Cellars Flooded

HOSPITAL UNABLE TO OPERATE FURNACE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Cellars within a ten-block area in Harlem were inundated by from six to nine feet of water today when a water main broke. The heating system at Knickerbocker hospital was put out of commission, exposing 153 patients to freezing temperatures, and furnaces in at least 150 other buildings likewise were extinguished.

The flood started when a mad torrent of water upheaved the pavement at Convent avenue at 135th street. The main flood swept down Convent avenue, turning that thoroughfare into a veritable river 10 blocks long to 125th street.

Worst in History

It was the worst water main break in New York's history.

Lesser streams of water gushed from the side streets and joined the main body. A huge lake was formed at 125th street.

Several hours after the break a hundred or more workers—police emergency crews, repairmen from the department of water, gas and electricity, and subway repairmen were working feverishly, seemingly making little headway.

A member of the water department said the water gate, near which the break occurred, is a main distributing point for water from the Croton aqueduct and is relayed through at tnat point by three 48-inch mains.

FIREMEN CALLED AWAY

(International News Service)

WELLESLEY, Mass.—Time out was called at the firemen's ball here when an alarm came from Wellesley college. Firemen, attired in full dress and boiled shirts, left the dance to put out the fire. After their work was done the brave fire laddies went back to their partners and continued the dance.

Scandal is truth seen through a keyhole.

TEARS FOR "TRAITORS"

(International News Service)

SHANGHAI — A number of Chinese youths have formed a "Weeping Corps." Their self-imposed duty is to kneel down in public and weep before all Chinese found buying foreign goods. They hope so to shame the "traitors" that they will never again buy foreign products.

GIRL BABES PREFERRED

(International News Service)

DENVER—Everyone who wants to adopt a baby for Christmas wants it to be a girl, says John L. McMenamin, superintendent of the Colorado Home for Dependent Children. With about 50 requests on hand, he said, the home was without a single girl baby.

Federal Housing Office Busy Place

Contractors Begin Securing Information On Improvement Needs Here

One of the busy spots in town this morning was the office of the Federal Housing Administration, in the Greer Building, where local contractors who subscribed to the Better Housing Campaign, began the task of securing information on improvement needs in the city.

A wealth of information has been secured from residents who need improvements on their homes and are desirous of making loans to finance them. This information is being passed on to the contractors and builders who have financed the campaign.

It will be made available to others who have not subscribed and to the public in general, on January 9.

Suggests Rules For Mail Courses

High School Students May Study Subjects Not Offered In Curriculum

TEXTS FURNISHED BY SCHOOL BOARD

HARRISBURG — In response to an increasing demand for correspondence courses for high school pupils who desire to study subjects not offered in their own school curriculum, the Department of Public Instruction has prepared a series of suggestions for the guidance of high school principals and teachers.

Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of Public Instruction, says that in the administration of approved directed study of correspondence courses all teachers should be legally certified in the fields of their assignments.

All correspondence courses, texts and materials should be furnished free of charge by the local school board, and 120 hours of regular attendance at classes under the direction of a qualified teacher, or the equivalent, are to be required for each unit of credit awarded.

Other suggestions provide for laboratory work and shop practice, the direction and supervision of study, and that correspondence courses purchased for directed study purposes should be in accordance with an approved list of agencies and courses.

Annual Camp Reunion Will Be Conducted

Girl Scouts Will Gather In First Christian Church Saturday Afternoon

Over 200 Girls Scouts of New Castle and surrounding territory are elegible and will probably attend the annual camp reunion which is to be an event of 2 p. m., Saturday in the First Christian church.

This reunion is held yearly for the purpose of bringing together the girls who attended during the previous summer either "permanent" or "day" camps. Camp counsellors, troop leaders and council members find the event of great interest also.

The high point of the afternoon's program will be the presentation of the Golden Eaglet, the highest award of Girl Scouting, to Beatrice Connor, of 609 Raymond street. The presentation will be made by Mrs. Albert Street, chairman of the Court of Awards committee. Winning of this distinguished medal is an achievement that has been made only once before in the history of the Girl Scout movement in New Castle. One year ago, at a camp reunion in St. Mary's church, the first Golden Eaglet was presented to Donna Jean Beall, of Fairfield avenue. Both Donna Jean and Beatrice Connor are members of the Minnehaha troop. Donna Jean will be a color bearer in the presentation ceremony tomorrow.

Ruth Connor will be another color bearer, whereas Betty Bridenbaugh, Leah Davis, Edna Raney and Peggy England will serve as guards.

Singing will be led by Mrs. Sidney Smith.

Miss Elizbeth Sowersby will present short playlet entitled "A Girl Scout at the Court of Queen Elizabeth," with the following scouts appearing in the cast, Olive Jean McKibben, Edwina Connery, Sara Jane Cleland, Marie Hanlon, Helen and Dorothy Stritzinger, DeEtta Cartwright, Eleanor Book, Hulda Book, Dorothy Campbell, Betty Velp. Betty England is stage manager.

Light refreshments will be served.

Judge Testifies, He's Overruled

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash.—When Superior Judge William G. Long gets through delving through facts on the bench, he often indulges in announcements which mustn't be taken too seriously.

Nowadays he's talking of the great success of his overcoat ranch at Stevensville, Mont.

Long has crossed kangaroos and raccoons on his overcoat ranch and got as the result kangracoons. The kangaroos are used to get pockets in the overcoats.

The kangracoons are fed postholes for buttonholes, mulberry leaves for the silk lining and clam shells for the pearl buttons, and then are shot to size. A perfect 36 fit pelt is found on animals eight months old, Judge Long swears.

Anyway, it's a good story.

Warner Baxter Recovers From Bite Of Spider

Movie Star Fights Off Poison From Bite Of Deadly Black Widow Spider

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan 4.—Warner Baxter, film star, today had his unusual physical condition to thank that he escaped without serious results after being bitten by a black widow spider.

The spider bit Baxter on the little finger of his right hand New Year's night.

When the finger turned black and blood dropped, Baxter called Dr. William E. Branch, who kept the star at home under treatment until today.

"Baxter's recovery in four or five days is unusual, and he has his remarkable recuperative powers to thank," said Dr. Branch. "Baxter's system had a curious ability to neutralize the poison injected by the spider."

Boys Tell Of Fatal Shooting

Butler Lads Give Statement Of Shooting Of Paul Oesterling

(International News Service)

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 4.—Signed statements of the two boys accused of the fatal shooting of Kenneth Paul Oesterling, 10, were on record today, revealing for the first time the tragic details of a boys' quarrel that resulted in death.

The two lads, the most youthful ever held for murder in Butler county, are Clarence N. Halleran, 12, son of Clarence R. Halleran, and Wendell Geibel, 13, son of Stephen C. Geibel. Both are in the custody of their parents.

According to the statements, the two boys went to the Oesterling place last Friday afternoon carrying a .22 rifle they said belonged to Halleran's father. The boys had sold a quantity of junk for the few pennies needed to buy bullets.

For an unexplained reason, the quarrel started, and stones began to fly. According to Geibel's statement, he fired two shots into the air, later turning the gun over to Halleran, as the boys were running out of the Oesterling yard, Halleran said, he pulled the trigger of the weapon while its butt rested on his "stomach or side," but not against his shoulder. They heard a yell, but ran on home.

Young Oesterling, struck by the bullet, died Saturday morning. Statements of the two boys will be considered at a coroner's inquest, to be held January 10. No preliminary hearing for the two lads has yet been set.

New Chevrolet Cars On Display Here Saturday

New 1935 Models To Be Shown At Shenango Motor Company

The new 1935 Standard and DeLuxe Chevrolet motor cars will be on display tomorrow at the showrooms of the Shenango Motor Co., 210 West Washington street, local Chevrolet dealers.

The new standard Chevrolet, styled in the traditional Chevrolet manner which has proved so popular, provides an entirely new degree of performance and operating economy. The new Master DeLuxe Chevrolet, the fashion car of the low-price field, is beautifully streamlined and smartly lower in appearance.

Both lines of cars are powered by the improved Master Chevrolet engine and give remarkable new performance. It is also said that these cars are even more economical to operate than previous Chevrolets.

Prices on the new 1935 lines of Chevrolets are as follows: Standard Models: Coupe, $475; Coach, $485; Sedan, $550; Phaeton, $495; Sport Roadster, $465; Sedan Delivery, $515 Master DeLuxe Models: Coupe, $560; Coach, $580; Sedan, $640; Sport Coupe, $600; Town Sedan, $615; Sport Sedan, $675. All prices f. o. b., factory.

Prices on standard coupe, coach and phaeton it was pointed out, show a decrease of ten dollars under corresponding models in the 1934 lines.

Prices on the Master DeLuxe models remain exactly the same as in 1934. Knee Action continues as one of the outstanding features on the new Master DeLuxe cars and is available to any customer at slight additional cost.

The new Master models also feature the new Fisher turret top all-steel roof construction and a much larger body with corresponding increase in interior dimensions.

An invitation is extended to the public to view these new models tomorrow at the Shenango Motor Co., 210 West Washington street.

LEAVE CITY FOR TENANT FARM JOBS

(International News Service)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—Failing to make a living in the city, 22,500 families, including about 100,000 persons, will go back to Oklahoma farms as soon as the drought breaks, under a government rural rehabilitation program announced recently.

Under the plan given out by the FERA, land will be leased from the owners by the government which will make necessary improvements and turn it over to the new tenants with sufficient livestock, implements and seed.

GIANT SKELETONS FOUND

(International News Service)

STRANGEST FISH STORY— PIKE DROWNS HAWK

(International News Service)

OSTERODE, East Prussia.—An unidentified fisherman is responsible for an account of what is perhaps the strangest fish story today.

According to the fisherman a huge sea hawk measuring a yard across the wings swooped down on a hefty pike which weighed about 15 pounds.

The fird fastened its talons in the fish and the fight started as the hawk tried to bring the fish out of the water. The fight lasted, according to the fisherman, the better part of half an hour until the hawk was exhausted.

The bird's talons, however, were so fast in the fish that the hawk couldn't withdraw them. The pike dove, taking the bird with it into deep water.

Strange man! He covets wealth to make him free, then he spends his life managing the wealth.

Three Members Of Workmen's Board Say Terms Do Not Expire Until 1936

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4. — The three members of the Workmen's Compensation Board, Arthur C. Dale, William J. Burchinal and Edward Hunter, today called attention to what they termed an "erroneous assumption" that their terms expire with the inauguration of Govnor-elect George H. Earle, January 15.

"Under the law, the term of a member of the Workmen's Compensation Board is five years," they said in a statement released in Pittsburgh at the start of a three-day hearing session. "The three present members took office on March 10, 1931. Therefore, by law, their terms run until 1936."

Earle has designated Norbert J. Fitzgerald, former Erie legislator, to membership on the board and political circles believe former Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish also will be named. It was expected that Colley S. Baker, Stroudsburg editor and Earle's campaign manager, will be chairman.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m., January 3, three arrests on charges as follows: drunkenness and disorderly conduct 2 and violation of parking regulation 1.

It cost the city $22,740.21, for tools for the CWA and RWD during the last year, according to figures available today. The original appropriation called for $17,000. Bills are still coming in for tools and supplies.

Room is rather cramped in the office of the city engineer, second floor, city building. Several RWD engineers and other attaches connected with RWD work do their work in the engineer's office.

Activity of the city police increased last year as the arrest and financial report shows. Councilmen look forward each month to the financial report of police and twice as much money was collected in 1934 as during 1933.

In 1934, council passed an ordinance to the effect that $100,000 would be paid from delinquent taxes for resurfacing of streets and other improvements. The delinquent taxes when paid are kept in a lump sum with which to pay certificates.

It is not known if the fire department will buy new hose this year. Two thousand feet were bought last year. For hydrants and hose this year $3,500, has been appropriated. Many new fire hydrants must be installed, according to council.

When the budget was fixed and appropriation for carrying compensation and insurance was made, it was placed at $5,600, for 1935, instead of $4,500, during last year, an increase of $1,100.

Because the mercantile assessor made more assessments last year than other assessors his compensation was fixed at $450.00, for 1935, instead of $300.00, during 1934.

The only time one hears the library discussed in city hall as a future city hall or public library is when some organization submits a petition to councilmen. Every petition referred to council has been placed on file.

It has been indicated in health department circles that a closer check will be made on the sanitary conditions that prevail in some of the places where food and beer are sold.

Deficit Is Fixed At $1,699,935,000

Heavy Increase In Deficit Shown For First Six Months Of Fiscal Year 1935

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Uncle Sam ended the first si months of the 1935 fiscal year December 31 with a deficit of $1,699,935,000, compared with $1,152,973,000 last year, the treasury announced today.

At that rate, considering a normally heavier expenditure in the spring, the year's deficit will exceed $3,500,000,000.

Receipts for the year were $1,845,082,000 as compared with $1,468,897,000 a year ago.

Public Debt Increases

Income taxes netted $420,550,000 and miscellaneous internal revenue $885,066,000, both substantial gains.

For all purposes the government spent $3,545,017,000, an increase of nearly $1,000,000,000.

Emergency affairs led to an outlay of $1,822,623,000, a gain of $700,000,000.

The public debt at the end of the year was $28,478,663,000 as compared to $23,813,790,000 a year ago.

Senior High Looks For Enrollment Gain

Jump From 1,890 To 2,200 Expected To Come As New Semester Opens

All indications today were that 2,200 or more students will be enrolled in Senior high school classes beginning with the second semester, Principal F. L. Orth announced.

At the present time, 1,890 are attending classes, but Mr. Orth reports that early signs indicate a considerable increase. Two portable buildings which have not been used to capacity since their erection will be crowded when the enrollment jumps.

The school's record high attendance, set several years ago was about 2,236 students.

A REVOLUTIONARY NEW HIGH-SPEED SAFETY CAR
New 1935 Plymouth on Display Tomorrow

This New Car Offers You:

New high-efficiency Engine . . . gives more power on 12% to 20% less gas and oil.

Highest Compression Ratio of any car . . . without the penalty of premium gasoline.

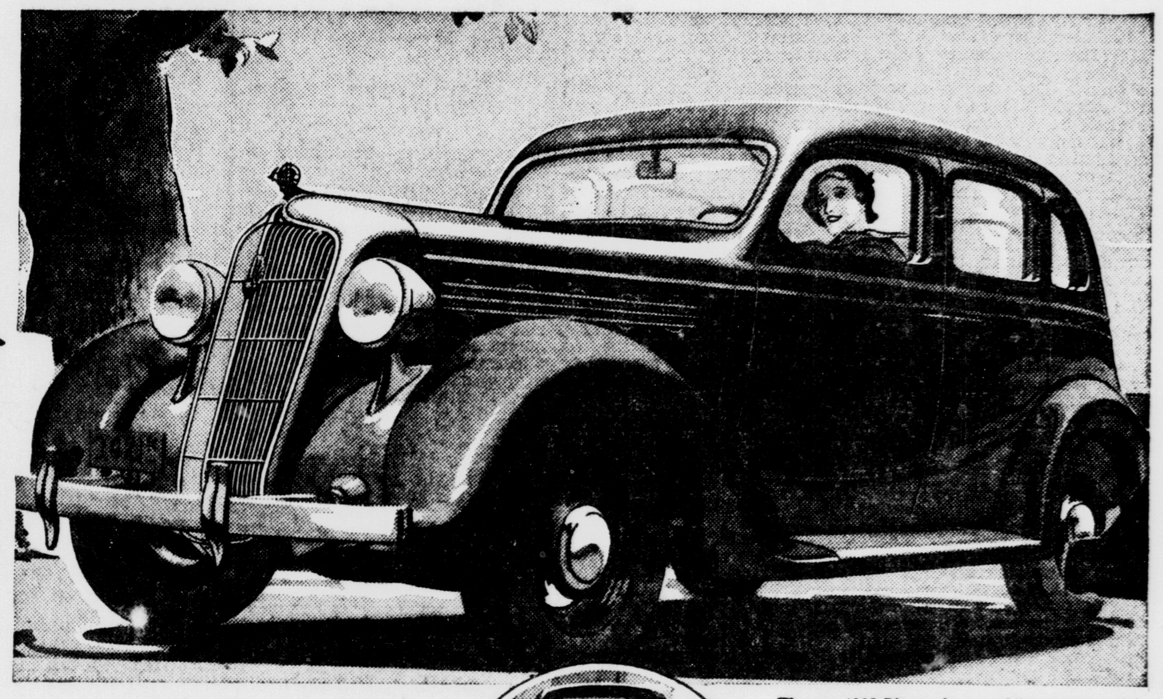

New Torpedo-type Body . . . of Safety-Steel from top to bottom. Seats 3" wider, floors 3" lower for added riding comfort.

Improved Hydraulic Brakes stop quicker. Centrifuse Drums make linings last longer.

New Syncro-Silent Transmission. New-type Clutch needs 30% less pedal pressure.

New Mola Steel Front Springs and New Weight Distribution give "Floating Ride."

New Sidesway Eliminator keeps car on "even keel"—gives new safety on curves.

The new 1935 Plymouth . . . world's most beautiful low-priced car. The first car designed to meet the Traffic Problem of today's crowded highways.

Here is Walter P. Chrysler's Answer to America's Traffic Problem. See it Tomorrow

TOMORROW, PLYMOUTH ANNOUNCES a new revolutionary high-speed safety car. A new kind of automobile, engineered from the ground up, to meet modern traffic conditions.

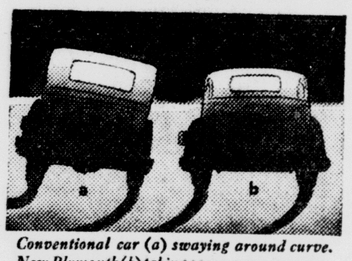

It's a car built under the personal supervision of Walter P. Chrysler to satisfy today's critical need for safe transportation on congested highways and pedestrian-crowded streets.

In This High-Speed Age

We're traveling faster today. The average speed on the road is 20 miles an hour faster than it was in 1925. Turnpikes teem with impatient traffic.

You need speed. But speed alone is not enough. You need a car that is quick moving and fast stopping. You need much easier control and quicker response.

And to guard against the other fellow's carelessness, you need greater protection than ever before . . . both for yourself and your passengers.

Conventional car (a) swaying around curve. New Plymouth (b) taking same curve, no sway.

That's the problem Plymouth engineers set out to meet . . . many months ago. And they solved it by building this new high-speed safety car.

It's a brand-new automobile . . . from front bumper to tail-light . . . not just a reconstructed chassis.

The "Floating Ride"; What It Does

You've never before driven a car like this. It actually "glides" over the bumps and ruts in the road.

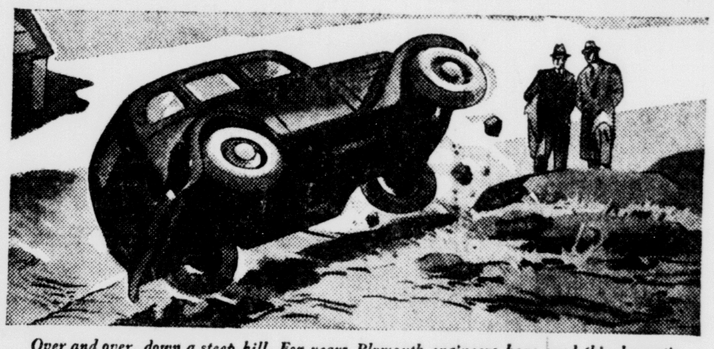

This new kind of "Floating Ride" is made possible by new, scientific weight distribution . . . the development of an ingenious new sidesway eliminator . . . and the use of new-type Mola Steel front springs. Technically, you ride at what engineers call a "lower vibration rate."

Actually, that means you don't bounce and jounce around the way you used to.

The new distribution of weight has been accomplished by placing the engine more directly over the front axle. The new-type springs reduce the oscillation frequency to 92 per minute, compared to 135 per minute in an ordinary car.

The sway eliminator at the front keeps the car on an "even keel" at all times . . . gives you new safety on curves. New "double action" shock absorbers further improve the riding comfort by controlling "spring bounce."

That's why you ride completely relaxed . . . at all speeds . . . in the new Plymouth.

Over and over, down a steep hill. For years Plymouth engineers have used this dramatic way of testing Plymouth's All-Steel Bodies. This year's Plymouth Body is even stronger.

Improved Hydraulic Brakes stop this 1935 Plymouth quickly, smoothly at all speeds.

We can't describe it . . . you've got to experience it . . . the thrill you get when you step on the accelerator of this wonderful new Plymouth.

60—70—80 and it seems like 50. The improved engine has the highest compression ratio of any car—without penalty of premium gasoline. Yet due to directional water circulation, calibrated ignition and the use of full-cylinder-length water jackets, gas and oil consumption is reduced 12% to 20%.

Shift the gears and notice the startling smoothness of Syncro-Silent Transmission. Even the clutch operates with 30% less foot pressure. Step on the brakes and "feel" the instant, even, Hydraulic action on all four wheels.

No wonder that this sensational new 1935 Plymouth deserves to be called "The World's Safest Low-Priced Car."

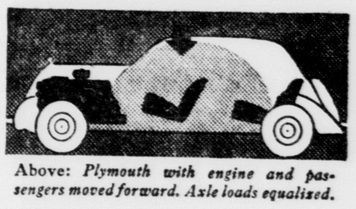

A Real Work of Art

Never before has a low-priced car been so strikingly beautiful. The whole car is streamlined . . . smartly so. It has long, graceful, flowing lines . . . and modern Airplane-type Fenders.

The body is torpedo-shaped . . . a symphony of beauty. It hurtles through the air with a minimum of wind resistance.

The entire body is made of steel . . . welded into one solid unit for your 100% safety. Frame and body are joined together in 46 places . . . and the body fits down over the frame instead of merely sitting on it as it does in ordinary cars.

Go see this new Plymouth "with your own eyes." Drive this history-making automobile. Experience its new kind of ride.

Any Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer in your neighborhood will gladly demonstrate the revolutionary 1935 Plymouth.

World's Safest Low-priced Car

On Court House Hill

Chief of Police Archie Shoup, of Bessemer, who was at the court house this morning, and who is in charge of the PWA project on the state line road, stated that about two miles of the road have been completed with 1½ miles yet to build. One hundred men are employed on the project, 40 from Lawrence county and 60 from Mahoning County, O. The work is being done jointly by the two counties.

An action in ejectment has been filed at the prothonotary's office by A. D. and Mary T. Swick against John and Sarah Zakel, to secure possession of a tract of land containing about 21½ acres in Neshannock township. The property was sold by plaintiffs to defendants in March, 1930 for $7000. It is claimed that the defendants have failed to keep up the payments according to the provisions of the article of agreement.

County Commissioners have discovered a rather unique way of conserving space in their office. Yesterday morning janitor Clifford James was put to work sawing used warrant books, in two. The books, which are around eighteen inches square, contain a warrant and a stub. The covers which are quite heavy are made of wood fiber with a covering and are being sawed off at the stub, which results in a saving of about half the space required to file the book. If a system of loose leaf warrants and stubs were used it would result in a considerable saving, as the stubs could be wrapped up and filed, and one cover would suffice until it were worn out. The books used are expensive for the purpose for which they are employed, and the commissioners are figuring on making a change.

County Sealer of Weights and Measures, L. W. Houk, has filed a report of his activities for the month of December. It shows that he inspected 91 scales of different kinds, of which nine were found to need adjusting. Computing scales figured prominently in the list there was fifty nine inspections with five needing adjusting. Eighty six oil pumps inspected were found to be correct, but of 43 gas pumps, two were found to be incorrect, and nine needed adjusting. In the liquid measure division, 171 inspections were made of measures used, all of which were found to be correct. Close watch was kept on package goods, 530 packages being weighed with the result that 11 were found to be incorrect. All of 73 avoirdupois weights were found to be correct.

D. Floyd Book, who is drilling one of the wells deeper at the county home, reports that he is now down about 300 feet and is going through a hard white sandstone. It is expected that a vein of water will be struck as soon as he gets through the sandstone, and commissioners were today getting prices on sucker rod. It may not be generally known that a wooden sucker rod is used for a deep well. The rod is usually made of hickory in twenty foot lengths. The ends are encased in galvanized iron with couplings. The sucker rod is rather expensive, usually selling from 75 cents to $1 per foot, with couplings. If another vein of water, as good as the one in the other deep well is struck there will be an ample supply to run the home.

Columbiana county, O., is constructing its court house as a CWA-FERA project and on March 1st will open a first class building at very little expense to the taxpayers. The completed building is to cost $275,000. Of this amount the county is only to pay $80,000 which is being raised by a bond issue. The balance of the cost is being contributed by the Federal and state governments.

County Commissioners held court of appeals for Ellwood City yesterday but there were very few adjustments to make. Enon, New Wilmington, South New Castle Boro, Volant and Wampum, were heard today, with few changes to be made anywhere. On January 7th commissioners will start on the townships, Big Beaver, Hickory, Little Beaver and Mahoning to be heard on that date.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

STATE FARM SHOW WILL INCLUDE MANY EXHIBITS

The State Farm Show at Harrisburg, January 21 to 25, is the display window of Pennsylvania agriculture. A number of Lawrence county farmers and homemakers are planning to exhibit their products in this great winter exposition.

Classes have been provided by the farm show commission for horses, sheep, swine, beef cattle, dairy cattle, milk, corn, small grains, potatoes, tobacco, apples, nuts, vegetables, maple syrup and sugar, apiary products, wool, eggs, poultry, baby chicks, dressed turkeys and foods, clothing, rugs, and home management products.

Belgian and Percheron horses will be shown. Sheep exhibits will include Shropshire, Hampshire, Southdown, Oxford, Dorset, Cheviot, Lincoln, Cotswold, Leicester, B-Type and C-Type Merinos, and Rambouillets. Swine breeds on display will be Berkshire, Chester White, Duroc Jersey, Hampshire and Poland China. Three breeds of beef cattle, Aberdeen-Angus, Hereford, and Shorthorn, will compete.

In the dairy cattle department representatives of five breeds will pass in review before the judges. These include Ayshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Holstein-Friesian and Jersey.

There will be a 4-H club classes in the sheep, beef cattle, and dairy cattle departments and vocational classes in the swine department.

Corn classes have been provided for adults, 4-H club members, and vocational students. In the small grains department wheat, oats, barley, rye, soybeans and buckwheat will be entered.

Potatoes will be shown in open classes, 4-H club classes, and vocational classes.

There will be 4-H club classes in tobacco, apiary products, eggs, poultry, and home economics and vocational classes in vegetables, eggs, apiary products, poultry, small grains and home economics.

Among the special features of the show will be 4-H club corn and potato judging contests, rural dramatic and music contests, farmers horseshoe pitching contest, 4-H club camp, and vocational demonstration contest, school exhibits, and project contests.

USE SASH GREENHOUSE TO GROW EARLY PLANTS

The demand for vegetables plants in the spring has been increasing each year owing to the increased interest in home gardening, and vegetable growers are producing a surplus of plants to sell besides those raised for their own use.

Before the weather becomes too severe, vegetable growers intending to grow their own plants next spring should make provision now for proper structures.

Small greenhouses for starting early plants are rapidly replacing the older and less dependable hotbed method. A home-made sash-roofed greenhouse 10 feet wide by 18 feet long, that is tight and thoroughly practical for the grower who raises 10,000 to 20,000 plants, can be built for $100 including heating equipment, but exclusive of labor. This cost may be further reduced by using the farm board pile. A small greenhouse produces earlier plants, is more economical to operate, and the control of temperature, moisture, and ventilation is more satisfactory than with hotbeds.

The sash greenhouse and coldframes are usually operated together for the growing of early plants. The plants are started in the greenhouse and later shifted to frames to make room for a second greenhouse crop of plants. Directions for constructing a sash greenhouse may be obtained from the Agricultural Extension office.

HEALTH AND SANITATION AIDS TO QUALITY MILK

One of the first requirements in producing good, pure, clean, healthful milk is the cow herself. Cows in the dairy herd must be healthy as well as clean. Every effort should be made to eradicate tuberculosis and infectious absortion, both of which diseases take an excessive toll each year.

Tuberculosis alone can cause a tremendous economic loss besides the effect on human health. Lawrence county cattle are all tested for this disease and the reactors have been removed. There also is a great economic loss in infectious abortion. Other ailments interfere with the production of good milk and result in a poor grade of milk, such as slimy, ropy, bloody, watery, and other abnormal conditions which demand immediate correction.

Cows should be given the opportunity to keep themselves perfectly fit and healthy. This means housing them in barns that are suitable, comfortable, sanitary, free from drafts, and supplied with proper ventilation and sufficient sunshine.

Cleanliness of the cows and their surroundings helps in producing clean milk. Keeping the barn clean and sanitary is necessary. The cows can be kept clean by clipping the long hair from flanks, bellies and udders so that dirt will not be collected. These clipped areas can be brushed and then wiped with a clean, damp cloth before milking.

Keeping the barn yards as clean as possible and preventing the cows from having access to manure piles and stagnant pools also helps in the production of clean milk. Manure piles and stagnant pools are great breeding places of flies and bacteria, which contaminate the utensils and lower the quality of milk.

LITTLE DETAILS HAVE FASHION IMPORTANCE

Most necklines are high and close to the throat, featuring some unusual draping or cut of the dress material, according to Miss Eleanor Drury, home economics extension representative.

Although white collars are less numerous, they make up in size, however, what they lack in numbers, Miss Drury says. Crepe, grograin ribbons, and satin are used for large collars, ruffled jabots, and bulky bows. Soft matelasse crepe and silk woven with metal threads are used for the draped scarf collars.

More practical than white, and high in fashion favor, are brightly printed or plaid silk scarfs, tucked in the necklines of the dark dresses. A red velveteen collar on a black wool dress, or bright blue on gray are other good suggestions made by Miss Drury.

There are many narrow tailored belts of dress material, sometimes trimmed with rows of stitching. Sashes are new. These show a contrast in color or surface finish; heavy cords are used also. Leather belts are attractive on knitted or tweed dresses.

Buttons are large and important, often making the only trimming of the dress. Most of them are of gold or silver or wood and although they are decorative, they also must have a real purpose. This means well-made and attractively bound button holes or loops of self material. Clips often worn in pairs are great favorites. These, too, vary in materials from wood to rhinestone.

Purses and gloves often match. And, by the way, patterns may now be purchases for both these accessories to be made at home.

Look up pieces of fur or worn fur garments stored in the attic, and make for yourself a fur 'kerchief scarf, a long, narrow stole scarf or a little cape. Perhaps you would prefer a little hat and a muff, Miss Drury suggests. Scarfs are more popular than ever: ascots, bright silk or knitted 'kerchiefs, and the familiar long, narrow ones.

Pupils May Try For Gorgas Award

HARRISBURG. — Opportunity to win $500 in cash and a travel allowance of $200 to Washington is now available to pupils of Pennsylvania high schools in a Nation-wide contest, according to an announcement by the Department of Public Instruction. This award is made annually by the Gorgas Memorial Institute which has announced the opening of the seventh annual Gorgas essay contest.

All high school students are eligible to enter essays dealing with work in disease control. The topic assigned for this year is "Gorgas" Control of Transmissible and Other Preventable Diseases."

Painless Death Advocated For Hopeless Idiots

Would Be A Mercy To Put Them Out Of Misery

(International News Service)

LONDON—Easy, painless death for the worst cases of mental deficiency was advocated by two prominent British physicians at the annual Royal Sanitary Institute Health Congress, held at Bristol.

Speaking of the lowest grade idiots—the speechless, helpless, hopeless idiots—Professor R. J. S. Berry, director of medical services at Stoke Park colony, characterized these unfortunates as "living examples of teratological malformations" and declared it was difficult for anyone who was in daily contact with these "human monstrosities" to understand why society takes such extraordinary pains to keep them alive.

"With complete absence of all human qualities or intelligence they have to be clothed, fed, housed and waited upon hand and foot at the nation's expense, and one wonders why. Surely a kindly euthanasia is the only really kindly treatment for this pathetic side of mental deficiency."

Dr. Henry Herd, sshool medical officer of Oxford, declared that sterilization, voluntary or involuntary, of these mental defectives, would in his opinion leave the problem as unsolved as ever. He, too, declared it would be a "kindness to all concerned" to apply euthanasia in the most hopeless grades of mental deficiency.

Witchcraft Blamed In Soldier's Death

Strange Rituals Are Introduced In Trial Of "Barracks" Murder Case

(International News Service)

CARCASSONNE, France—Rituals of witchcraft are on the minutes of the court in this small town as a result of the sensational "barracks murder" trial under way here. The charges of witchcraft were made by a woman, Germaine Gernignon.

She is jointly accused with two men and a woman, all of them Arabs. Miss Gernignon in her testimony referred to the daughter of a lamb and the burial of the lamb's bleeding heart in a soldier's tomb at night. She also referred to incantations made to Satan.

One of the Arabs and Miss Gernignon confessed to taking part in the "barracks murder", so-called because it was committed in the quarters of the colonial troops near this French town, which lies above the republic of Andorra.

One of the accused, Mme. Julie Toubiana, indignantly denied there was any witchcraft in the strange affair. She admitted a prosecution description of herself as "the darling of the whole barracks", said she knew all the men in the regiment, and that her husband was insanely jealous of her.

Her husband, incidentally, was the man killed.

CONGRESS COMMITTEE WILL FAVOR BONUS

Cash Payment Will Be Favored

Majority Of Committee Are In Favor Of Cash Bonus Measure

COMPROMISE IS LIKELY ON PLAN

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Payment of the $2,100,000,000 soldiers bonus will be recommended by the powerful house ways and means committee, which will first consider the issue, a poll of the committee disclosed today.

The committee probably will recommend payment by the inflation, or currency expansion, method. The division on this issue may be close.

Some See Compromise.

While some members, anxious to preserve harmony with the White House, plan to see a compromise, the indications are that the Patman bill will be accepted substantially.

Rep. Doughton (D) of North Carolina, chairman of the committee, hopes for a compromise measure.

"We will consider the bonus at an early date," he said. "I favor taking these controversial issues and disposing of them. If it were paid, I wouldn't favor simple printing press money."

Of the seven new Democrats elected to the committee, four are for the bonus and currency expansion; one is opposed, one open minded and one could not be reached.

Poll of Committee.

For cash payment, 14.

Against, 2.

Non-committal, 7.

Unrecorded, 2.

Hearings on the Patman bill are expected to begin within three weeks.

Democratic leaders have already assured bonus advocates of a vote in the house if the committee reports bill.

The Hauptmann Trial.
Two Faces.
One White, Ghost-like.
Some Girl-Reporters.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE REPORTER who writes this column watched the beginning of Bruno Richard Hauptmann's trial in the kidnaping and murder of Col. Lindbergh's little boy.

Judge Trenchard, a jurist of great learning and dignity, presided in a courtroom filled with newspaper reporters, photographers and 150 prospective jurors waiting for 12 to be chosen.

AN HOUR was spent studying two faces in the crowded room, the faces of Hauptmann and of Col. Lindbergh, who believes that Hauptmann is the kidnaper and murderer of his child, after identifying the voice of Hauptmann as that which he heard in the graveyard, behind a wall, giving directions for delivering the ransom money.

THE TWO MEN sat less than 10 feet apart, their backs to the railing around the judge's enclosure. Reporters and jurors sat behind them. Neither looked at the other. The few that could see their faces watched them intensely, wondering what thoughts were in their minds, and at the self-restraint of Col. Lindbergh, with only one policeman between himself and Hauptmann.

COL. LINDBERGH has changed since the tragic death of his child; he has grown heavier, and the boyish smile that once lit up his blue eyes and frank face is seen no longer. He seems to have gained in weight, although he retains his athletic figure.

As he sat facing the judge, Col. Lindbergh pressed his left hand against the side of his face, as though shutting out the sight of Hauptmann.

THE LATTER looked straight ahead, his emaciated hands with long fingers, folded loosely in his lap. He looked as though seeing something far off, looking at no one, except once, when his lawyer told him that his wife was sitting a few rows back of him. Then he turned for a moment, and smiled faintly while she waved her hand to him, encouragingly.

He smiled again when his lawyer whispered to him encouragingly. Color came into his face, that had been deathly white, and two deep dimples appeared in his cheeks, which are sunken and emaciated, as is all of his body.

He is a little above the average in height, and his blue eyes look out from deep sockets, under an overhanging brow.

Every line in the face, every look in the eye, every slow, listless movement tells of horrible suffering. The worst of all punishment is fear.

No man of sound judgment looking at that face, apart from other evidence, could fairly form an opinion as to the man's character, his guilt or innocence.

HAUPTMANN seemed like a man far away from that courtroom, one who had made up his mind as to the outcome and had ceased speculating about it.

There is no doubt, although he makes no statement, that Attorney General Wilentz believes he has evidence sufficient to convict both on kidnaping and murder, as well as extortion.

There is no doubt that the accused man will have a fair trial with Judge Trenchard presiding. He reminded jurymen when their examination began that they must be prepared to give the accused the benefit of every "reasonable doubt", even within the jury room.

HAUPTMANN has as chief defender Lawyer Reilly, a fighting Irishman who will contest every inch of the battle, not any apologic lawyer, but one who avers that he "would not for one million dollars give up the privilege of defending Hauptmann." You must assume that he believes Hauptmann innocent. One million dollars are a great many.

All such cases become a battle of lawyers pitting their wit and ingenuity one against the other.

THE CHIEF of the prosecution, Attorney General Wilentz, predicts nothing and says positively "Hauptmann is a man of unusual intelligence." He is, in fact, "smarter than all the lawyers on both sides put together."

It would be interesting to know how Hauptmann has revealed this intelligence and "smartness," and how he will demonstrate them, as the trial progresses.

He is expected to rely for his defense on silence; his attitude might be put in words, as follows:

"I did not commit the crime. You accuse me of it, therefore proceed to prove that I am guilty if you can."

EVIDENCE must be largely circumstantial apart from Col. Lindbergh's positive identification of Hauptmann's voice as that of the man who received the ransom money in the graveyard. No one actually SAW the kidnaping.

Ingenious Lawyer Reilly will doubtless seek to counteract the Lindbergh testimony as to Hauptmann's voice, demanding a test, in which Col. Lindbergh would be called upon to pick out the voice of Hauptmann, among several voices speaking with a foreign accent, similar to Hauptmann's. The defense will allege that it would be difficult to remember any particular German accent, positively, after two years.

ON THE RIGHT of the judge, you observe the interesting portrait in oils of an ancient New Jersey lawyer, Thomas Potts Johnson, born 1776, year of this country's birth, dead in 1838. It is an earnest old face, and how puzzled it would be if it would come out of its frame to hear testimony concerning a child whose father had won fame by flying, without stopping, all alone from New York to Paris.

After hearing this, and looking out of the courtroom window to see hundreds of automobiles, moving rapidly with nothing to push or pull them, and hearing a court official talking into a contrivance attached to the wall, and appearing to receive answers, old Thomas Potts Johnson would say "put me back in my frame, the world has gone crazy."

THE COUNTRY'S best reporters and photographers attended the opening of this trial, including the learned Damon Runyon, who knows mental processes of the underworld better than that world itself knows them, and Walter Winchell, who writes and broadcasts, and was much delighted when each juror in cross-examination testified that on the radio he heard Walter Winchell. The latter has been definite in expressing his opinion that Hauptmann is guilty.

ONE INTERESTING spectator in the courtroom, influential with every official, was D. H. Morreau, editor of The Hunterdon County Democrat, published in Flemington.

William Randolph Hearst and others that always look for good young newspapermen, please observe that there is a first-class young editor with a job not big enough for him in Flemington, N. J.

D. H. Morreau looks like Senator Medill McCormick used to look when he was young, and at his best.

To be young, thin and keen gray eyed, possessing a mind that works without friction, is a blessing. It comes sometimes, but does not remain.

THE SMARTEST lady reporter at the trial was Miss Adele Rogers St. Johns, who works for J. V. Connolly, president of International News and Universal Service, and can write five articles in one day on five different subjects, then map out a movie scenario, with "love interest."

She was the smartest with two possible exceptions. One of whom was a young girl reporter named Alice Hughes who works for E. D. Coblentz, of the New York American. She thinks nothing of going to Russia all alone, and keeps going until she gets to Vladivostok, then comes back carrying less than the amount of luggage allowed in an airplane, bringing a perfect mental picture of everything on both sides of the way.

There are many smart newspaper girls in the United States, and the smartest of them all is still Dorothy Dix. Dorothy Dix was the best of all female reporters except perhaps Nelly Bly until she turned from great reporting to biological philosophy.

Garden Clubs Have County Day

Report Of Progress Of Clubs During Year Made At Session

STATE COLLEGE MAN IS SPEAKER

"Planning and Planting Home Gardens" was the subject of an address by Professor A. O. Rasmussen, of State College, Thursday afternoon, in the Y. W. C. A. his listeners including nearly a hundred members of the county's garden clubs, assembled for the quarterly County day. Professor Rasmussen, introduced by Mrs. S. D. Pearson, was assisted by H. R. McCulloch, Lawrence county farm agent, who showed lantern slides, which in conjunction with an excellent address, emphasized the importance of proper foundation plantings about the home and grounds.

Previous to the address, the group enjoyed a tasty luncheon, served from an exquisitely laid table, centered with an artistic floral arrangement. Hostesses were Mrs. Russell Allen, Mrs. Russel Urmson and Mrs. S. E. Crawford of the Lawrence County Garden club which had charge of the meeting.

An additional feature was an exhibit of terrariums, or gardens in glass which were interesting bits of "fairyland." Mrs. B. H. Kannenberg was awarded a prize for the most popular selection. Mrs. C. Alan Ingals presided over the business session, assisted by Mrs. Russell Allen and Mrs. A. P. Treser, when reports were heard of the year's work.

Mrs. Richard Cooper, of the Mahoningtown club, spoke of her club's work in the preparation of the plot of ground, at the corner of Liberty street and Madison avenue which will be developed this year.

North Beaver reported through Mrs. Dale Andrews, that their club's highlights of a civic nature were the flower show promoted last fall and the evergreen planting on the school lawn. The North Beaver club has the largest membership of the affiliate clubs, 48 in number.

Mrs. Irwin Ropp, for New Bedford, spoke of their flower and school show and the contest for non-gardeners, in which there were 18 entrants. Their most recent project was to prepare, before Christmas, evergreen bouquets with Yulebells for the decorations of every home in the village.

The East Brook club with Mrs. John Robinson reporting, showed success of their first flower show which was an event of 1934, other civic projects including the beautifying of the church and grange grounds in their district. In addition, they organized a Junior club which is promising.

Miss Edna Robison, president of the Mahoning Valley club—the baby of the garden groups, since it was organized less than a year ago—showed progress in a growing membership of from 17 charter members to 42 interested gardeners at this time.

The East Side of town benefitted from its garden organization in 1934, said Mrs. Earl McKnight, by stimulated interest, not only among adults, but also in the children, as one of the city's most successful flower and vegetable shows was held under their direction in Thaddeus Stevens school.

Mrs. Paul Allen, in her summary for the West Side, spoke of the importance and interest displayed in their shade tree project, plans being underway for the planting of trees on the West Side school grounds and for the protection of the trees in the West Side Park from vandalism. They also sponsored a flower show last year, at the school. Mrs. M. Feuchtwanger supplemented Mrs. Allen's talk by bringout out more important facts about the work of the shade trees commission.

In conclusion, Mrs. A. P. Treser, speaking for the mother club, mentioned the tenth anniversary observance in March of 1934 with the presence, among its guests of four of five charter members Mrs. Elizabeth Royce, Mrs. E. W. Greiner, Mrs. S. D. Pearson and Mrs. M. Feuchtwanger, of the organization which has grown, in that length of time, to be one of Lawrence county's leading clubs.

The Lawrence County Garden club participated in both the Jameson Memorial hospital drive and the N. R. A. movement, held a plant sale and was honored during the year by having two of its members named for state offices: Mrs. S. D. Pearson as state chairman of garden conservation and Mrs. W. C. Eckenroad as garden chairman of the southwestern district of the Federation of Women's clubs. Mrs. Eckenroad announced a flower show for the coming June, and spoke briefly, of one of this year's minor aims being the planting of gourd seeds by all gardeners for a fall display.

At the invitation of the East Side club the next County Day will be held at a future date and place to be named by them.

The February meeting of the Lawrence County Garden club, on the first Thursday, will be featured by a talk by Lawrence County Agent H. R. McCulloch, who will discuss "Preparation of Soil for Flats and Methods of Testing Soils."

Steamship Crash Probe Continues

Mixup In Signals Blamed For Crash In East River At New York City

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Inquiry into the cause of the crash in which the Colonial line's steamship Lexington was rammed and sunk by the Arrow liner Jane Christenson in the East river was to continue today at the customs house.

At yesterday's session before the United States Steamboat Inspection Service, witnesses told of confusion in passing signals as conveyed by the ships' whistles. A third vessel might have contributed to the mixup, it was said.

Meanwhile bodies of possible dead were sought near the scene of the crash. Four crew members are missing, but it is possible they went to their homes without checking with the company officials. The district attorney's office indicated it would seek indictments if any loss of life is definitely proved.

Drama Marks Bruno's Trial

Gripping Thrills Mark Fast Moving Trial At Flemington, N. J.

MANY HIGH SPOTS IN TRIAL ALREADY

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 4—Speed and one intensely dramatic thrill after another have featured the Bruno Richard Hauptmann trial thus far.

Publishers, who are spending hundreds of thousands of dollars to report the proceedings to the world, knew the trial of the ex-German machine gunner for the murder of Baby Lindbergh, would be a powerful dramatic thing.

Moves Fast

But nobody dreamed the drama would be as gripping as it is, or that it would move so fast that a jury would be selected and Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh questioned in the first two days.

As the questioning of Colonel Lindbergh was resumer today the following stand out as the high points of the trial to date:

The moment when olive-skinned Attorney General David T. Wilentz handed Anne Lindbergh a grayish tattered object, the court room was tense, breathless as he asked:

"Can you tell what that is?"

Only her wide, burning eyes betrayed her horror and grief as she took the thing in her hands. She replied, simply: "That is the flannel shirt cut out of the flannel petticoat."

Shirt Of Baby

It was the shirt her baby was wearing the night he was kidnaped and in which he was found dead. Dainty Anne Lindbergh, a thoroughbred, didn't shed a tear.

Then there was that feverish moment when Howard V. Biggs, an unemployed bookkeeper, was sworn in as the twelfth juror.

Minutes later Wilentz electrified the courtroom with his opening address to the jury. He levelled a finger straight into the staring face of Hauptmann and shouted.

"The man who killed and murdered that baby sits in this very courtroom."

There was the breathless fascination at Colonel Lindbergh's first full, public account of the crime, in his high, clear voice he told of hearing a sound that the state believes was caused by the collapse of the kidnaper's ladder.

Then he told of learning his baby was abducted.

DUEL CHALLENGER KILLED BY OPPONENT

(International News Service)

SZEGED, Hungary.—Resenting a personal affront Baron Tamas Tunkl challenged Dr. Ferenc Lazar to a duel.

Under terms of the Hungarian code the antagonists chose pistols, stipulating three shots each to be fired advancing five paces toward each other after each shot.

The first two shots of the opponents went wild, but the third slug from Lazar's pistol, fired at 20 feet almost disembowled his opponent.

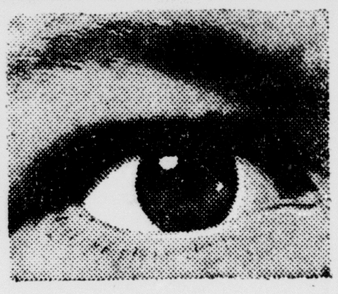

The result of the duel brought a vigorous anti-duelling campaign from the Hungarian press.

Betty Gow Will Be Day's Witness

Nurse To Follow Col. Lindbergh On Stand Sometime Today

CHIEF WITNESS FOR PROSECUTION

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 4.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Miss Betty Gow will be the star witnesses at today's session of the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the taciturn carpenter who is charged with the murder of the Lindbergh baby.

Colonel Lindbergh will resume the stand to complete his direct testimony and then the defense will subject him to a lengthy cross-examination.

Betty Gow Next

Betty Gow, the nurse, who was the last person to see the baby before he was kidnaped from his crib in the Lindbergh home at Hopewell on the night of March 1, 1932, will follow Lindbergh to the stand.

The defense carefully refrained from cross-examining Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, mother of the slain baby, during her dramatic appearance on the stand. Edward J. Reilly, chief counsel for the defense, said:

"We did not cross examine Mrs. Lindbergh because the feelings of a mother are too tender to be bullied. She was a sympathy stirring witness but from a practical point of view her testimony was valueless."

Evokes Sympathy

Mrs. Lindbergh evoked a great deal of sympathy indeed when, on the stand, she identified the stained, torn garments and sleeping suit worn by her baby on the last night she saw him alive. Tears welled even in the eyes of Mrs. Anni Hauptmann, the defendant's wife, when little Ann Lindbergh made these identifications which brought back such poignant memories.

Lindbergh's story has been only partly told to the jurors. Attorney General David T. Wilentz, said this morning that it will require hardly more than half an hour for the father of the slain baby to finish his direct testimony. Then Reilly will take Lindbergh over for cross-examination.

Lindbergh's Story

Colonel Lindbergh related how on the fatal night of March 1, 1932, he arrived home about 8:25 p. m. He had supper with his wife. They went into the living-room about 9:00 p. m. About 9:30 he started to read in the library on the first floor. Mrs. Lindbergh, meanwhile was upstairs.

Asked if he saw any objects going past the library window, Lindbergh replied that he did not. But he did remember hearing, about 9:15 p. m. A sound like the falling of a crate. He remarked to his wife: "What is that?" Wilentz asked him if it sounded like the falling of a ladder and Lindbergh said "Yes." Lindbergh told how Betty Gow, greatly excited, called to him about 10 p. m. and asked if he had the baby. He immediately went upstairs into the nursery and from the appearance of the crib he realized something was wrong.

Finds Note

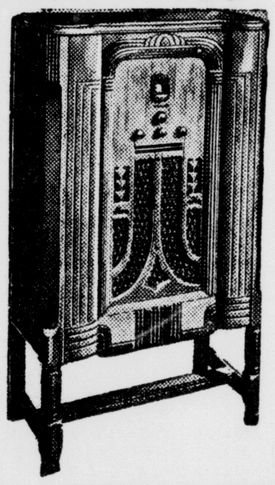

He told of finding the ransom note, unopened, on the window sill. The window was closed. The note was in an envelope on top of the grating which formed the window sill. It demanded $50,000 ransom. Courtroom observers believe, judging by the defense lawyers tactics, that the Hauptmann defense will be that the crime was an inside job.

The defense is expected to attempt to show through cross-examination of Betty Gow, Elsie Whateley, housekeeper and others that the kidnapper must have had information from inmates of the house or their friends to have accomplished the crime.

Tigers Club Has Regular Meeting

Officers For 1935 Are Installed Into Office On Thursday Night

Impressive in every manner were exercises conducted in the clubrooms of the Tigers club, South Mill street, on Thursday evening, when 1935 officers were installed into office.

Peter P. Capitola, who was in charge of the exercises, delivered a most interesting address. The 1935 officers include: James Scarazzo, president; Peter P. Capitola, vice president; Tony C. Richards, secretary of finance; Joseph Bordonaro, Jr., treasurer; Anthony Straw, secretary of correspondence; Anthony L. Petrucci, Albert Thomas, Pat Cole, John Ross, Peter J. Richards, trustees; Charles Richards, chairman of the athletic committee.

The gathering enjoyed a party during the remainder of the evening. Plans for an event, marking the seventh anniversary of the organization, to be held on March 28, were formulated.

LADYSMITH (Natal)—An old Zulu warrior who appeared at the native commissioners court here to give evidence was asked when he last had a bath. "I had a swim in the river about 40 years ago," was his reply.

Seek To Force Debt Payment

Would Get Part Of $11,000,000,000 Owed To United States By Higher Tariffs

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.— Three drastice measures to force payment of the $11,000,000,000 debt owed the United States by European nations were demanded by congress today by Rep. Knutson (R) of Minnesota. They provide:

Additional tonnage fees on ships of defaulting nations. Enlargement of Johnson Act to prohibit sale of private securities of defaulting nations in the United States. Additional tariff duties against defaulting nations.

"The idea is to provide whatever charges are necessary to collect the money due us," said Knutson.

Vehicle Bureau Faces New Task In Auto Permits

Employes Prepare To License 2,000,000 Operators

HAVE TWO MONTHS TO GET PERMITS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4—Life in the Bureau of Motor Vehicles is just one huge task after another at this time of the year.

After a month in which more than 1,000,000 sets of 1935 license plates were issued the Bureau is continuing that phase of its work while attacking the even bigger assignment of preparing to re-license more than 2,000,000 operators.

December, always a month of intensive activity in what then becomes the Commonwealth's largest mail-order establishment, witnessed the shattering of all previous records during the post-holiday period. In mailing out 104,256 sets of tags in less than 16 hours on December 27, the Bureau set a new mark for high speed efficiency. By shipping an average of about 7000 sets of plates an hour, the augmented force of employes, easily surpassed the previous record of 95,300 registrations issued on December 28, 1931.

With more than 1,200,000 motor vehicles now re-licensed for the new year, the peak of the demand for registrations has been passed and the Bureau is able to center its attention on operators' licenses. About half a million vehicles have not yet been re-registered but, on the basis of past experience these will be renewed at a less breath-taking rate during the next few months.

Until February 28

The 1934-35 operator's licenses remain valid until midnight, February 28, but the Bureau already has begun its preparations to facilitate their renewal. Application forms are being prepared for some 2,500,000 persons who have held cards during 1934, 1933 or 1932—including the record-breaking group of nearly 2,200,000 who have obtained licenses during the present year.

The Rev. Agnes E. Guthrie announces that the first mediumship papers will be presented to Mrs. Annie Crocker at this time.

In addition to hearing addresses by the speakers, a musical program will be featured. Master Earl Hammond and George Victor are among those to take part. Mrs. Mae Hammond will preside at the piano throughout the evening.

HELD FOR COURT

Failing to provide bail, Edward Davis, negro, was committed to jail Thursday afternoon by Alderman Richard R. Lewis on a charge of forgery. Davis is alleged to have stolen the RWD pay envelope of James Thompson, countersigned and cashed the check. It is possible that further charges may be made against Davis by the postal authorities.

Home Loans Are Being Cleaned Up In Lawrence Co.

With considerable speed the balance of the Home Owners Loan applications in this county are being cleaned up by Manager Don F. McGrew and his assistants. In the past three months 500 applications have been closed, for a total of approximately $1,500,000.

For the past three weeks they have been working on the applications that had been filed but were not considered eligible at the time the HOLC closed down taking new applications.

The HOLC office is on the second floor of the federal building on the public square.

Fire Threatens Business Block

Small Damage Results From Blaze In Long And Morehead Building

Fire which started from a defective chimney threatened the Long and Morehead building at North and ... streets at 8:50 last evening, but was extinguished by firemen with but a small loss. The damage was estimated by Assistant Fire Chief James E. Thomas at around $50, covered by insurance.

The blaze started from an accumulation of soot in a pocket in the chimney, which was left by a brick falling out, and set fire to a joist which had been built into the chimney. It communicated to the floor in the rear of the room occupied by the New Way Plumbing & Heating Supply company, burning through the floor.

The smoke from the smouldering blaze made its way up the elevator shaft into the apartments above, and was discovered from this source before it had gained much headway.

Likely Session Of Legislature Will Be Lengthy

Many Controversial Subjects Are Likely To Prolong Present Session

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—Legislative leaders of both parties have gone on record favoring a brief, business-like session of the general assembly this year, but privately many of them see little hope of adjournment until June.

Speaker Wilson G. Sarig, Berks, opened the 1935 biennial session with a call for a 100-day meeting, suggesting that both houses meet four days a week instead of three to expedite legislation. While not naming a definite length, the senate Republican majority also moved for a short session.

Sarig's 100-day plan would bring adjournment in mid-April, which has not happened since 1929—when legislative problems were much lighter than those facing the current session.

But, scanning over the pile of problems to be tackled, problems termed the greatest since the Civil war, many legislators agreed that hopes for a short session were largely hopes and not much more.

Another point working against a short session, it is agreed, is the fact that a near majority of members in both houses are "freshmen" legislators without previous experience. The knack of blending with complicated parliamentary procedure is considered an asset to speedy action.

Added to this is the fact that the Democratic house and the Republican senate are almost sure to come to a parting of the ways over more than one piece of vital legislation. There are wide differences of opinion, for example, of methods of new taxation to raise the $72,000,000 Gov. Pinchot said must be found to balance the next budget, plus whatever new revenue is needed for relief.

All legislators do not see eye-to-eye either on such measures as unemployment insurance and other social welfare and labor bills which are expected to play an important part in the work of the legislature.

Once the two politically-divided houses disagree, conference committees must be named thus frequently delaying final action for several days.

First in Fifty Years

Wilson G. Sarig of Temple is the first Democratic speaker the lower house of the Pennsylvania legislature has had in 50 years.

National Farm Outlook

Written for Central Press
By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal

ONE OF THE JOYS of the New Year will be that once again agriculture will find out what it is worth in dollars.

At least I hope it may be a joy; maybe it will be a headache.

Promptly on January 1 the census bureau begins its special census of agriculture, which comes along every five years. It will be finished, no doubt, by the end of this month.

Agriculture is of such overwhelming importance to the welfare of the nation that it seems necessary to collect these figures oftener than the regular ten-year census.

* * *

MORE FARMS

What the 1935 count will show is, of course, anybody's guess. We are interested in the number of farms, which in 1930 was 6,288,648, and which should be somewhat higher now, owing to the return of two or three million city people in the last few years.

That movement also should increase the total population on farms, which in 1930 was 30,445,350.

But the most interesting thing of all will be the total value of farm property, meaning land and buildings.

Just five years ago, in this column, I wrote that I considered that farm property was worth 41 billion dollars in 1910, which was the census figure for the year. I threw out the 1920 figure of 78 billions, since that was a year when farm prices still were in an inflated position. Probably 50 billion was somewhere near the real value.

In 1925 the figure was up to $57,017,740,040, and I wrote hopefully that I expected it to be higher in 1930.

* * *

VALUATION LOWER

Well, it was higher. It was, in fact, $57,246,384,483—a gain in five years of about 230 millions. That is not much of a gain, in a business as big as agriculture, but plenty to maintain my reputation as a prophet.

As to 1935, I expect the figure to show a substantial loss—this being due not only to a drop in land valuations per acre, but to the fact that there has been much less new building than normal since 1930.

What the valuation figure will be I don't know, and don't want to risk my reputation by guessing, but I shall be surprised if it is not under 50 billions.

* * *

DOLLAR WORTH LESS

Of course there is one factor that tends to throw all such calculations out of kilter, and that is that all these values are expressed in dollars, and the dollar itself has depreciated.

The dollar being only 59 cents in gold, supposing farm property to be worth 50 billions, would that be only 29 billions in gold? But if you say the dollar should be valued in commodities, not gold, then what is farm property worth?

Let's don't talk about it—it is too confusing to start the New Year with.

It is just possible that farm property values have risen in some areas, such as the cotton country, in response to higher cotton and tobacco prices, which in turn are partly the effect of the 59-cent dollar.

In other areas, farm land did not depreciate much, even in 1931 and 1932.

There is a chance, therefore, that the 1935 total will be 50 billions or better. But I don't expect it. What I do expect is that by 1940 all the lost ground will have been made up and the total will be over 60 billions.

Paste that in your hat, and check it up in 1940, in case we all live that long.

The World War 20 Years Ago

By Clark Kinnaird, Author Of Today Is The Day

Naval dispatches appearing in British newspapers on January 2, 1915, dwarfed for the time all the news of the battles of considerable proportions then taking place along the two frontiers of the Continent.

The dreadnaught Formidable was torpedoed and went down off Portsmouth between 3 and 3:30 a. m. of New Year's day, and 550 men were lost. Only four boats could be launched; they brought 130 men ashore.

Stories told by these survivors showed that the great ship, struck abaft the magazine, trembled and quivered. At the same moment there came from the sea an awful smell, which betokened the character of the explosive used. The ship took a list to starboard and in 45 minutes went down in awful darkness, for a gale was blowing, rain was falling in torrents and a high sea running. Most of the boats were smashed or capsized in trying to get away.

The supposedly invincible British fleet was shown again to be easy prey for Germany's invisable U-boats.

Nevertheless, confidence was being restored in London just as it was in Paris where citizens were gradually returning to the homes they had abandoned in confusion in August. Long deserted boulevards of the French capital were humming again and theaters and cafes were open. The government clamped down on some of this new gaiety by forbidding the sale of absinthe for the rest of the war. The London stock exchange opened on Jan. 4 for the first time since July 30.

Charles XII, Napoleon and other would be conquerors had learned to their regret that winter had not the impediment to Russian armies that it was to others. Now, as cold gripped the eastern front, the czar's forces were engaged in three tremendous drives. A second invasion of Hungary was started. Hindenburg was driven back in north Poland. Turks were defeated in the Caucasus in a great battle that reached its climax on the 3rd and 4th: 80,000 of Enver Pasha's men were put out of action, either as casualties or captives.

Everywhere along the western front, the efforts of the Germans to advance had become more like the sorties of a beleagured garrison than the impetuous onrushes of an army of invasion. French were more active on the attack now than the Germans. On the 4th their army in upper Alsace fought their way through the half of Steinbach that was still held by the Germans. They drove them out in confusion and swept on until they recaptured defensive positions west of Cernay.

The Governor Says

What Is Going On In Harrisburg—And Why

By GIFFORD PINCHOT
Governor of Pennsylvania

As I go out of office I wish to express, in all humility, my deepest gratitude for having been given the high privilege of serving two terms as Governor of Pennsylvania.

No one can serve even a single term in any state office without being deeply impressed by the size and greatness, in area, in population, in natural wealth, in opportunity, of our magnificent State.

But when a man has campaigned the State county by county at least a dozen seperate times, as I have; when a man has met hundreds of thousands of Pennsylvania citizens face to face; and when a man has directed the affairs of the Commonwealth for eight years, as I have, he begins to realize just what Pennsylvania is.

Pennsylvania is greater in every way than many a nation. Pennsylvania is one-tenth of the United States. We have just about 10 per cent of the population and just about 10 per cent of the national wealth.

We are known as the greatest productive state, and that is right. We produce nearly 11 per cent of the total value of the manufactured goods of the Nation. We are the second state in the whole country in the total value of our manufactured goods.

Our mines and quarries produce more in value than those of any other state. No other state has anthracite.

Few people realize how great an agricultural state Pennsylvania is. In spite of our industrial record we rank ninth among all the states in cash income from agricultural products. We stood first in our potato production, third in the value of the apples we raised, and within the first five states in dairy products.

About half of our 45,000 square miles is in forests. And we have six great rivers widely used in industry and transportation.

Pennsylvania has the greatest highway system in the country and especially the greatest system of rural roads.

The bare statistics tell us nothing about the beauties of Pennsylvania forests, rivers, hills and valleys. But I don't have to tell any Pennsylvanian who knows his state.

We are a full and independent Commonwealth in every sense of the word. More than any other state I know of we are self-sufficient and self-supporting. You and I are mighty proud of Pennsylvania.

To have had a share in the building, of Pennsylvania, and in serving her as Governor, has been a glorious privilege.

And as I go out of office I would like to make this appeal to you and all the rest of the people of Pennsylvania:

Let us be sure that this Pennsylvania of ours is always in the hands of the people and no one else. Let us never again turn it over to any boss. Let us have done with politics for profit. Let us see that the good of the people comes first. We the people have the power. Let us use it at every election.

Medical Society Has Election Last Night

Dr. Campbell Is President; Paper Of Evening Read By Pittsburgher

Dr. W. L. Campbell was elected president of the Lawrence County Medical society for 1935 when members met for their January program in The Castleton last night.

Other officers chosen were:

First vice president, Dr. J. P. Prioletti; second vice president, Dr. D. L. Perry; secretary, Dr. W. A. Womer; treasurer, Dr. W. C. Burchfield, and members of the board of censors, Drs. A. W. Shewman, L. W. Wilson and W. L. Steen.

"Cancer of the Stomach" was the subject of the enlightening paper which Dr. R. R. Snowden of the University of Pittsburgh presented during the scientific period of the meeting.

The doctors also viewed a demonstration, conducted by Dr. A. W. Shewman, of contact lenses, a new development in the field of optometry.

Fable: NRA decided price-fixing was wrong, so it refunded the fines of little fellows who had been punished.

Two-Gun Man Of Old West Branded As Sheer Fiction

(International News Service)

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—The two-gun man of the old West, interesting type though he may be to modern fiction writers and movie makers, had no existence in real life, according to John R. Barrows, Montana historian.

About 100 years ago, before the westward rush of the pioneers had crossed the Mississippi, he pointed out, Colt put a sixshooter on the market. This weapon, according to Barrows eliminated the necessity of carrying two guns. Formerly pistols came in pairs.

"To reload was a good deal like changing a tire," he said in speaking of the pistols that preceded the six-shooters.

"No matter how deftly done, time is lost.

"I lived for nine years on our rudest frontier, and never saw a two-gun man. I carried one six-shooter until I grew lopsided. I know, on the friendliest terms, a half dozen men who will probably be classified as 'bad men.' I knew them only as men who ought not to be affronted.

"We could not then, nor can we now, see any reason for two-guns. We are in agreement with Wyatt Earp, who, admitting that an extra gun might be useful in an imaginary case, said it would only be held in reserve until one gun had been emptied and dropped, the loaded gun then being shifted into the firing hand.

"I have heard it said that Wild Bill Hickok carried two revolvers when he was marshal of one of the tough southwestern towns, but at that time he had only the muzzle-loading revolver. When he was killed in the Black Hills, he and his assassin were each armed with one revolver. This was true of Jesse James and his killer."

Hypnotism Breaks Up Girl's Hysteria

(International News Service)

CINCINNATI, O.—Shocked into a state of hysterical amnesia after witnessing a brawl in a night club here, Mrs. Peggy Reif, 24, was restored to normalcy by hypnotism.

Dr. Meyer Zelig, in charge of the receiving ward at General hospital, hypnotized the young woman. Upon her release from the hospital Mrs. Reif was declared to be none the worse for her experience.

ONLY WOMAN ORCHESTRA MEMBER

Miss Alice Chalifoux

Miss Alice Chalifoux is the only feminine member of the Cleveland Symphony orchestra. She plays the harp. She likes to work solely with men, she says, but has to stand lots of razzing. Miss Chalifoux was born in Birmingham, Ala., but was educated in the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia, gaining her B. A. in music. After graduation she tried out for a vacancy in the Cleveland orchestra, which then was directed by Nikolai Sokoloff, and won a three-year contract, a remarkable achievement for a 22-year-old girl. Arthur Rodzinski is the present conductor.

CHANGING TIMES

BOSTON,—It used to be that when foreign visitors to our shores arrived here they immediately began a search for the streets which were paved with gold, but when Gerald Murray, 13, returned to his family after six years spent in Ireland, he expected to see bandits running wild on the streets of Boston.

So far he has seen nothing but ordinar, American folks, and he confided to friends that he was a little bit dissappointed about it.

Finds This Little Piggie Is Smart

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Jan. 4.—Pigs are among the most intelligent of animals, according to Professor Malishevsky of the Moscow zoo, and along some lines most closely approximate the human mentality.

Picking a young pig at random from a drove headed for the slaughter house, the professor has trained the animal to distinguish colors, picking out the required colored board at the word of command, to sit at table and eat from a plate and to carry its own plate to a keeper for a second helping.

Germans Find New Uses For Rabbits

(International News Service)

BERLIN—Rabbits may crowd pigs out of Germany's famous sausages.

Seeking an additional outlet for rabbit meat, a government bureau has discovered a dozen ways in which rabbit may be cocked or processed into tasty dishes.

Hundreds of thousands of inhabitants in the small "shack" colonies around Germany's principal cities add to their income by raising rabbits, which are in demand in the fur trade.

Realignment Of Powers Rumored

Believe Concrete Action Will Follow Laval's Visit To Mussolini

GERMANY WILL BE KEY NATION

(International News Service)

ROME, Jan. 4.—A complete realignment of European powers today was forecast as a likely result of important conversations to be held here over the week-end between Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France and Premier Benito Mussolini.

Official Italian communiques on the meetings, the first of which was scheduled for tomorrow, stressed that "the general political situation" would be discussed along with Italo-French relations.

Austria probably will be the most talked about power in the statesmen's meetings, which mark the first official visit of a French statesman to Rome since the end of the World War.

CCC PARTY GETS START TO CAMP

County's 60 Boys Will Face Doctors At Butler This Afternoon

Almost 60 Lawrence county CCC recruits left New Castle for Butler in donated automobiles shortly before noon and this afternoon, at Butler's armory, were undergoing the physical examinations that will decide whether or not they may enter government service.

Forty of the 60 that made up the party will be accepted this time. That is Lawrence county's quota.

Accompanying the party were authorities of the Relief Area No. 10 office here and the Federal-State Employment office. From Lawrence, Mercer and Butler counties a total of 125 will be enlisted.

Needed automobiles necessary for the boys' transportation were provided overnight. From Butler tonight the accepted boys will be sent by special train to some Army conditioning camp. They will enter a forest camp after the limbering-up period.

Sweeping Probe Of Morro Castle Fire Demanded

New York State Senator Would Probe Thoroughly Into Disaster At Sea

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Sweeping investigation of the Morro Castle disaster was demanded in a resolution introduced in the Senate today by Senator Robert F. Wagner (D.) of New York.

Declaring that the steamboat inspection service probe of the burning of the luxurious pleasure liner was just a beginning, Wagner asked that Congress conduct an inquiry which would make American ships safe for American passengers and crew. The blame must be placed where it should lie, he said, and remedial laws enacted as a result of the lessons learned.

Hauptmann Seen Near Hopewell Is To Be Testimony

(International News Service)

GLOUCESTER, N. J., Jan. 4.—Charles B. Rossiter, 30, who has been subpoenaed to appear as a witness at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, today revealed he will identify the defendant as a man he had seen in the vicinity of the Lindbergh home a few days before the flyer's baby was kidnaped.

Rossiter said that in February, 1932, he "happened to meet and talk with a man I later discovered to be Hauptmann."

The man he declared he will identify as Hauptmann, according to Rossiter, was a "mysterious stranger, with a black overcoat, a gray suit and eyes that rather pierced me."

Rossiter refused to discuss details of the testimony he is expected to give at Hauptmann's trial. He did, however, say that he had been in Hopewell both before and after the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped.

Arrest 278 Here During December

Ninety-Eight Pay Fines; Departmental Receipts $665.95

Police court receipts plus money derived from various kinds of licenses net general revenue of the city $666.35, during December, according to a report submitted by Mayor Charles B. Mayne to colleagues during council meeting held in city hall today.

Of the sum $378.80 was derived from fines, $150,000 from licensing of dance halls and $128 from permits for dances. The balance was collected from telephone calls made by prisoners.

There were 278 arrests of whom 98 paid fines. Thirteen were sent to jail, 159 discharged, four turned over to aldermen's custody and four others placed in custody of other than city police officials.

The arrests were made for causes as follows:

Negro Workman Attacks Foreman

Pittsburgh RWD Worker Is Perhaps Fatally Wounded In Duel With Picks

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 4.—Refusing to obey orders given him on an RWD project here, John Martin, 37, negro, engaged in a duel with Richard Dadey, 39, foreman on the job, and was wounded probably fatally.

Police arrested Dadey on an assault and battery charge after the fight, in which the men used picks. Martin was struck in the neck by his opponent's pick, which tore a six-inch wound, police said, adding that witnesses asserted Martin rushed on Dadey after being ordered to another part of the job.

Note to capitalists: Good working dogs seldom start eating the sheep if they are given plenty of meat.

New Dodge Cars Will Be Shown

Display Of 1935 Cars To Be Made By J. R. Rick Co. Saturday

The New-Value 1935 Dodge motor car goes on display Saturday at the J. R. Rick Motor Car Co., 468 E. Washington street, local Dodge dealers.

The Dodge factory reveals the fact that the 1935 Dodge is the car that made 175 experts guess wrong. So much luxury, style and value are featured in this new car that experts outguessed its price. They couldn't believe it would sell for so little.

Never before has any car so low-priced been so smartly designed, so sturdily built, so luxurious, with 95 basic advancements for new comfort, new economy, new high speed with safety.

The New-Value Dodge is powered with the Dodge "Red Ram" engine. It's silky smooth, with traditional Dodge dependability, and develops 85 miles an hour and up.

Prices on the various models follow: Coupe, $645; Coupe with Rumble Seat, $710; Sedan, $735; Two-door Sedan, $690; Touring Sedan (2-door, with trunk), $715; Touring Sedan (4-door, with trunk), $760. All prices f. o. b. factory.

Both the New Dodge and Plymouth models for 1935 will be on display at the Rick Motor Car Co. Saturday and the public is cordially invited to see this showing.

Titans Defeat Carnegie Tech By Score 33-30

BENNETT, LEYSHOCK ARE HIGH SCORERS

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 4.—Pittsburgh basketball fans were treated to a rare floor show last night at the Tech gym when after two hard fought periods the Titans of Westminster college nosed out a courageous Carnegie Tech quintet 33 to 30. It was a basket by John Willits, a sub forward, that gave the highly touted Titans the victory with less than two minutes left to play.

Bennett-Leyshock Star.

Wesley Bennett and Pete Leyshock divided scoring honors for the Westminsters with 21 of the points between them. Sweeney accounted for six points.

At the end of the first half the towering Titans had a lead of 20 to 11, but it was not long in the second half until the Techites had made a game out of it, and Westminster was forced to turn on the heat.

Willits Wins Game.

With the period a little over half gone the Westminsters led 29 to 20, and it looked like a safe enough lead, but Riggs, Fitzwilson and Felser started to score and soon the count was 29-29. From here on it was a red-hot battle, until Mr. Willits, the Ford City boy, took the ball and heaved it through the hoops and away went the Tech hopes. At the end of the game Wilhelm and Leyshock were on the sidelines due to foul trouble.

The Westminster team appeared tired after their long trip to the east and the hard battles that they have gone through the past two weeks. Spisak Riggs and Shomo were the leading scorers for the Techites.

The summary:

Westminster	Fg.	F.	Tp.
Bennett, f-c	3	4	10
Leyshock, f	5	1	11
Backus, c	0	0	0
Hunneke, g	1	0	2
Wilhelm, g	1	0	2
Sweeney, f	1	4	6
Willits, f	1	0	2
Totals	12	9	33

Carnegie	Fg.	F.	Tp.
Felser, f	1	0	2
Kritscher, f	1	2	4
Fitzwilson, c	1	0	2
Patt, g	0	2	2
Riggs, g	2	3	7
Spisak, f	3	2	8
Shomo, f	2	1	5
Totals	10	10	30

Score at half time—Westminster 20, Carnegie Tech 11.

Missed free throws—Westminster 4 (Bennett, Wilhelm, Sweeney 2); Carnegie 5 (Kritscher 3, Patt 2).

Personal fouls—Westminster: Leyshock 4, Wilhelm 4, Hunneke 2, Bennett, Backus; Carnegie: Felser 3, Riggs 2, Ewalt 2, Patt, James, Shomo.

Referee—Bill Evans, Lebanon Valley; umpire, Ben Richman, Pitt.

WAYNESBURG TOPS GLENVILLE 41-36

(International News Service)

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 4.—Waynesburg College today pocketed a hard-fought victory over Glenville Teachers, 41-36, in an overtime game here last night.

The Yellow Jackets swept from behind in the second half to knot the score just as the regular playing time expired.

THE SPORT * * * * * * * * PATROL * * * * * *

By JOHN J. MAHER, JR.

NO BAER SHOWS IN N. Y.

Max and his kid brother now have one less state in which they can put on their little act for the boxing fans. According to Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, Maxie must put on his exhibitions elsewhere, if at all, and fight one of the leading contenders when performing in New York.

General Phelan gives undeserved praise to Steve Hamas, Art Lasky, Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera when he calls them "outstanding contenders." There isn't a high-class fighter in the group. If one of them went into the ring with Baer, the "leading contender" would probably not last over four rounds, so why worry whether it's scheduled for 15 rounds or the exhibition limit of four?

King Levinsky has been playing around in the same class with Phelan's foursome for years with fair success. Prior to his encounter with the champion, he fought a draw with Art Lasky. He was never even close to a knockout before in his career, yet Max put him away with ease.

If he can do it to the Kingfish, there is no apparent reason why he couldn't take care of the others also.

It is claimed that Baer was aided by the agreement which permitted six-ounce gloves and about half the hand wrapping of tape and guaze customarily used.

In looking back at the fight it can be seen that this did help Max, and it helped him a whole lot. However, in fairness to Baer it must be stated that there isn't a heavyweight in the contender class who would have been willing to meet Levinsky under those conditions. If they did, would have been with the Maxwell street fish peddler.

And another question that hasn't been answered is what any of Phelan's quartet ever did to rate the title of leading contender. Primo Carnera has had one fight, a listless affair in South America with Campolo, since he lost the crown. In that engagement he looked even worse than before.

The others have fought among themselves, of them winning, naturally, but there was nothing ever accomplished in the way of marking an "outstanding" battler.

Just why Baer's exhibitions should be blacklisted is another thing that is not quite clear. Wrestling matches are allowed and they are really nothing more than exhibitions. At least, in the frolics of Max Baer the customers aren't kidded into believing that they are seeing real battles. They are advertised as exhibitions and the fans that pay to see them know what to expect.

If anything in the Baer traveling group should be stopped it is the "regular" boxing bouts of Buddy Baer. They are no closer to being real fights than the affairs of Max, the only difference being that they are under the misnomer of "fights" instead of "exhibitions."

Section Three Season Starts

New Castle Will Play At New Brighton In Opening Of W. P. I. A. L. Race

SECTION TOUGHER THAN LAST YEAR

New Castle High School basketball team will go to New Brighton tonight for the opening battle of the W. P. I. A. L. Section Three toga. The New Castle High Reserves will play the New Brighton Reserves in the preliminary game. The games will be played at the Dawes gym in New Brighton.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will bank on Johnny Carik and Henry Koszela to take care of the forward posts tonight, with either Nahas or Mumford at center, with O'Brien also a possibility. The guards will be Captain Ostrosky and Harry Toscano.

New Brighton Strong

New Brighton has been going good in the pre-season games and the other night handed the strong Erie Academy high team a setback of 29 to 13, which would indicate a clever New Brighton high team.

The main cog in the offense of the New Brighton team is Bingham, a veteran of two years, along with Dyer. Miller is also a dangerous man.

Other Section Three games tonight will find Ambridge high entertaining Beaver Falls at Ambridge floor. Aliquippa will play at Ellwood City. Butler drew a bye for the opening round.

Following is the probable lineup of the game tonight:

New Castle		New Brighton
Carik	f	Bingham
Koszela	f	Susiewich
Nahas	c	Sayre
Ostrosky	g	Dwyer
Toscano	g	Miller

Helen Jacobs Denies Story

Woman Tennis Champion Says "I Am Not Going To Turn Professional"

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 4.—Miss Helen Jacobs, number one American woman tennis star, today vigorously denied in a statement to International News Service that she was turning professional, as reported in New York.

"I haven't had an offer from O'Brien since last August," Miss Jacobs said. "I am not planning to turn professional."

The family of Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, No. 2 woman tennis player of Britain, today said it was "unlikely" that she would turn professional.

At the same time Fred J. Perry, English and American champion and England's greatest tennis player in many a year, told the Evening Standard in a radiotelephone conversation from Sydney, Australia, that he would not turn professional unless offered "a million pounds."

Hubbell Signs 1935 Contract

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Carl Hubbell, lean left handed ace of the New York Giants pitching corps, today sent in his signed contract for 1935. He is the first Giant to fall in line. It is understood he will receive $16,000 for his season's work. Last year he got $12,500.

Hubbell led both major leagues last year in the earned run averages allowing opposing teams only 2.30 runs per game.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Joe Louis, Detroit's hard socking heavyweight who leaped into the pugilistic limelight after a six months career in the professional ring had ended training for his 10 round bout with Patsy Perroni of Cleveland tonight at Detroit. When Joe enters the ring he will be in quest of his thirteenth victory. Max Baer will appear in an exhibition with Babe Hunt of Ponca City, Okla.

Adolph Miller of Norristown, was re-elected president of the Pennsylvania Game Commission at Harrisburg yesterday. J. Q. Greveling, of Wilkes-Barre was named vice president succeeding Dr. William H. Moore, of Philadelphia. The commission reported 40 primary game refugess consisting of 11,901 acres and 15 auxiliary refuges, comprising 4,810 acres were acquired last year. In addition 26,731 acres of state game lands were bought. Nearly all of the refugess are for small game, principally wild turkey. The state has had 453,305 acres of game lands and 183 refuges, consisting of 127,186 acres. Excepting for 1931, more hunting licenses were issued in 1934 than during any year since licenses were issued. More than half a million hunters took out licenses in 1934.

Titans Play Glenville On Saturday Night

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 4.—The first of four home games in succession for the Westminster college basketball team will be played Saturday night in the Titan gym with Glenville State Teachers' college of West Virginia as the opponent.

Glenville won 13 out of 18 games last season and won the West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference championship. The Teachers will play the Titans following games with Waynesburg on Wednesday and Slippery Rock tonight.

Captain Robert Combs, senior star center, will lead the Teachers against the Titans tomorrow night. Ten players, including only two new men without previous varsity experience, will make the trip. The Titans will play Glenville in a return game at Glenville, W. Va., on Feb. 22.

Other home games for the Titans include: Slippery Rock, Monday, January 7; Waynesburg, Saturday, January 12; Salem, Wednesday, January 16. University of Pittsburgh will be played in the next game away from home. This important contest will be played in the Pitt pavilion on Wednesday, January 23.

In tomorrow night's game, Coach John Lawther will probably start Willits and Sweeney at forwards, Bennett at center and Hunneke and Wilhelm at guard. Glenville will present at least four six-footers in the lineup.

No wonder bachelors think they are smart. When they tell a thing wrong, there is nobody to correct them.

Union To Open League Season

Zelienople High Will Bring Fast Quintet Here For Opening Game Of Section 18

Union High School basketball team will pry off the lid of the 1935 Section 18 W. P. I. A. L. basketball season tonight at the Union High court by meeting the fast Zelienople High team. The Union High girls and the Union High alumni girls will play the preliminary game at 7:30 p. m.

Coach Davey Boyd has an almost green team ready for the court tonight against Zelienople. Three of the classy regulars of last year—Morrison, White and Boron—are missing this year. Todd and Schaas are the only two left-overs at Union. Rudesill, King and Wotowitz are the replacements.

Zelienople Strong

Zelienople high will come here with an unbeaten record in five early starts. Richardson and Sankey are the two main cogs in the Butler county team again this year.

Other Section 18 games listed for tonight are as follows: Mars at Karns City; Evans City at Slippery Rock.

Following are the probable lineups of the Union-Zelienople game:

Union		Zelienople
King	f	Simmons
Todd	f	Richardson
Schaas	c	Sankey
Wotowitz	g	Getsay
Rudesill	g	Scheidmantle

ELIGIBILITY AT NOTRE DAME IS MADE STRICTER

(International News Service)

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Jan. 4.—Revised eligibility rules, more stringent than those of the western conference, henceforth will guide intercollegiate athletic competition at Notre Dame University.

An "eight semester" rule is one of the innovations of the eligibility rules announced by Dean James E. McCarthy, secretary of the faculty board in control of athletics. That amendment forbids athletes from taking part in intercollegiate competition after their eighth semester at the university.

New Wilmington Cards Fredonia

Three Games At New Wilmington High Floor Tonight, Harrisville Cancels

(Special To News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Dec. 4—New Wilmington high school basketball team, idle in County league circles tonight will go against the strong Fredonia high team at the New Wilmington high floor. There will be three games tonight at the high court. The girls of New Wilmington high will play the Plaingrove high girls in the first game.

The second game will find the Volant and Plaingrove high teams in a floor engagement and the final game will be New Wilmington vs Fredonia.

Coach Eagleson has the New Wilmington high team primed for the battle. The New Wilmington-Harrisville game for Saturday night has been cancelled owing to an epidemic in Harrisville.

Church League Games Tonight

Epworth M. E. vs. Sacred Hearts will be the feature on the New Castle Church league basketball card at the "Y" floor tonight. This will be the second game on the bill.

The first game starting at 8 o'clock will send the First Christians against the First Methodist team. The third game will bring the league leading St. Michaels team against the Tifereth Israel quintet.

Humbert Team To Play Forest A. C.

King Humbert basketball team will play the Forest A. C. team Saturday night at the Humbert hall at 8 o'clock. The preliminary game will find the Perelmans and Ne-Ca-Ro quintets tangling.

The games tonight at the Humbert hall have been postponed. The Johnson Bronze-Kirppus game will be played Saturday afternoon at the Humbert hall at 2:30 o'clock, it was announced by Bill Ross.

Two Games In County League

Two Games Will Be Played Tonight In County High School Circuit

Two games will be played tonight in the Lawrence county high school basketball league.

East Brook will go to Bessemer to tackle the league leaders, in what should prove an interesting battle. The Wampum team will be at Mt. Jackson to match tosses with the Spearmen.

Union is playing a section 18 game with Zelienople at Union high and New Wilmington and Shenango are idle tonight.

Three Floor Games At "Y" Saturday

There will be three games at the "Y" floor Saturday night, it was announced today. The league game in the Indus-House loop will be played first and will send the Castletons against the "Y" Devil Dogs.

The second game, a non-league affair, will have the Sacred Hearts tangling with the National Pants team. The third game brings the famous Daniels team of Franklin, Pa., to oppose the Epworth M. E. team.

FLOOR NOTES IN NUTSHELL

TIGERS-CATHOLICS MEET

What promises to be a contest replete with action, is the coming Tigers Club-Catholic floor tilt to be played on the Lincoln-Garfield court on Saturday morning. The Catholics have captured six straight triumphs and have as yet to taste the pill of defeat. Frank Novera, Slippery Rock star, will play for the Tigers.

The New-Value Dodge Sedan $735*

HERE IT IS—THE CAR THAT MADE 175 EXPERTS Guess Wrong!

"I KNOW GOOD LOOKS when I see them," says Russell Patterson, famous artist and illustrator, "so it's no wonder that I guessed the price of the new 1935 Dodge too high."

"DAZZLED BY BEAUTY," says Miss Dorris Bishop, buyer and value expert. "I guessed the new 1935 Dodge to be worth hundreds of dollars above its actual price."

"I GUESSED this new 1935 Dodge to be priced much higher than it actually is," says Homer H. Bailey, former buyer for a mail order house. "Even though I'm wrong, I still think the car is worth it."

"THIS NEW 1935 DODGE looks like $1,000 model," says Karl F. Lueder, value expert. "Was I surprised to find it costs so much less! It's no wonder I figured wrong when it came to guessing the price."

So Much Luxury, Style and Value in the New 1935 DODGE, Experts Overguessed its Price... Couldn't Believe It Would Sell for So Little.

175 experts—authorities in style, value, engineering—guessed too high when asked to estimate the price of the New-Value Dodge for 1935.

But no wonder they guessed wrong! Never before has any car so low-priced been so smartly designed, so sturdily built, so luxurious... with 95 basic advancements for new comfort, new economy, new high speed with safety.

And "Synchromatic Control," which makes driving unbelievably easy and effortless ... the new "Airglide Ride," which gives Dodge a steadiness, smoothness and roadability never before ever approached by other cars.

The New-Value Dodge is powered with the Dodge "Red Ram" engine. It's silky smooth, with traditional Dodge dependability. Develops 85 miles an hour and up! Built to last, to save money, no matter how fast you drive. A saving of 15¢ to 20¢ on every dollar you spend for gas is now possible—with even more astonishing oil economy!

Compare delivered prices of this 1935 Dodge against other cars! You'll be surprised to learn how low they are. Only the genius of a manufacturing organization like Dodge—with 20 years' experience building fine motor cars—could create such outstanding dollar-for-dollar value.

Boys Basketball League To Start At "Y" Saturday

Boys Divided Into Two Leagues For Basketball Play This Winter

Henry McNichols, physical director of the "Y," has divided the boys basketball league into two groups this year.

The older boys group will start play Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p. m., it was announced, and the younger boys will play at 4:30 p. m. The teams will alternate the early and late starting times each week.

All of the teams have submitted player lists. The following teams have been selected by the committee as having eligible lists.

Older Boys League Schedule for Saturday

Imperials vs. N. C. Trojans.

"Y" Intermediates vs. Mahoning Aces.

Neshannock Rangers vs. "Y" Juniors.

Younger Boys League

"Y" Devil Dogs vs. Keystone Midgets.

Syrian Eagles vs. Second U. P. Juniors.

Sportsmen Will Dine At Pulaski

Members of the Shenango Valley Sportsmen's Association will stage their annual banquet at the Pulaski Methodist church on the night of January 10, it was announced today, by "Red" Anderson of New Wilmington, president of the association.

The banquet will be attended by the wives and girl friends of the members. It will be a gala event. The principal speaker will be H. Randolph Thompson, representative of the Board of Game Commissioners of Pennsylvania. The committee on arrangements for the banquet consists of C. B. White, C. F. Simpson, L. M. Mitcheltree, and W. L. Anderson.

DRAKE WINS GAME

(International News Service)

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Jan. 4.—Drake University today chalked up the first win of its eastern tour today after walloping Lehigh, 58 to 32 last night as the sharpshooters of Drake unleashed a rally that could not be halted.

Smith, with 18 points, and Orebaugh, with 14, led the visitors' attack.

Trap Shoot Will Be Held Saturday

Lawrence County Sportsmen Will Hold Trap Shoot Event At Fair Grounds

There is considerable interest being manifested in the trap shoot scheduled by the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association at the New Castle fair grounds Saturday afternoon. The shoot will start about 1 o'clock, according to an announcement by Karl Rohrer today.

The shoot is open to anyone who cares to attend. If you do not have a gun and ammunition, they will be furnished by the sportsmen at the fair grounds. There will be valuable prizes given for the high scores of the shoot.

GROVERS TO OPEN

GROVE CITY, Pa., Jan. 4.—Grove City college's cagers step into action for the first time of the season tonight when they meet Youngstown "Y" College here. The varsity squad of 18 men was called back from Christmas vacations in order to get in first rate shape for the opener.

TILDEN-VINES TO MEET

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 4.—Big Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Vines will meet here in a pro tennis match January 12, it was announced today. With them will be George Lott, Jr., and Lester Stoefen.

Maybe we should have another amendment to guarantee freedom in spite of sex, race or being in business.

Ellwood To Meet Aliquippa High

Tubers Have Tough Assignment In Section 3 Inaugural Tonight At Gym

New Defense To Be Used For First Time; Change In Line-up To Occur

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4.—Tonight the basketball season for Ellwood City High School will be in full swing when the W. P. I. A. L. will start its active schedule. Practically all the high schools in the Pittsburgh district and Western Pennsylvania will begin their league games. Ellwood's lot is the strong team from Aliquippa High School at Lincoln gym at 8 o'clock. The Reserves of both schools will play at 7.

The Benedictmen have been preparing for this game with great earnestness and recent workouts indicate that the Lippemen will be given an interesting evening of it. Due to the advantage in height the visitors will have tonight a special defense have been devised against this, and which will be used for the first time by the Tubers.

The locals showed fine form in pre-season games, winning two out of three games. They split with Zelienople and trimmed the Alumni. Coach Benedict has some promising looking players on his varsity squad that will have to be reckoned with before the season is over. It is likely that two changes will appear in the line-up tonight in order to facilitate their newly devised defense. Coach Benedict is contemplating in starting Marcus instead of Stoughton at guard and also Hughes instead of Kraynak at the pivot position. The remainder of the line-up of Captain Robuck, Cole, and Luxenberg will remain intact.

The Benedictmen will be tangling with one of the most powerful teams in the district this evening. Aliquippa, to date is undefeated. The locals realize this and have overlooked nothing in preparing themselves for the inauguration of the Section 3 schedule. Aliquippa has a big team featuring Maravich and Walker. If these two can be stopped Ellwood has a good chance of victory. If Cole and Captain Robuck are up to snuff there will be some fireworks.

The probable line-ups for tonight are as follows:

Ellwood		Aliquippa
Robuck (C)	F	Maravich
Cole	F	Milavoich
Hughes	C	Walker
Luxenberg	G	M. Chilivh
Marcus	G	W. Chilivh

Mrs. O. W. Meisel Hostess To Club

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4.—Mrs. O. W. Neisel was hostess to the members of the M. Y. B. Club last night at her home on Line avenue. Mrs. Mattie Sloan and Mrs. Florence Evans were special guests.

Cards were the chief diversions of the evening with two tables in play. Prizes went to Mrs. Robert Morris, Mrs. Charles Lamb, and Mrs. C. E. Anderson. Both of the guests received favors.

An appetizing luncheon was served at a later hour by the hostess with the assistance of Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Lewis Neisel. The Anderson will be hostess to the club in two weeks.

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4. — An all day meeting was held Wednesday by the Ladies Aid Society of the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church with 14 present. After a tureen dinner at noon, quilting was the occupation of the day. A devotional and business meeting was also conducted with the president, Mrs. Sharpe Johns, in charge. A committee of Mrs. Ora Travis, Mrs. Eli Yoho, and Mrs. Frank Foreman was delegated to plan methods for raising funds. The society will meet again on the first Wednesday in February.

Sankey Transferred Back To Ellwood

To Be In Charge Of Safety Here Again; Management Optimistic For Year

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4.—Announcement was made today of the transfer of C. E. Sankey, supervizor of safety of the National Tube company, from the Pittsburgh office to the Shelby plant at Ellwood City, where he formerly was.

The management and employees of the local plant are delighted with this news. It was during Mr. Sankey's previous stay here that the local plant won the national safety contest. Mr. Sankey has always had his home in this city, while he was in the Pittsburgh office.

High hopes for a successful business year is held by the management of the plant. A steady pick-up in business very shortly is anticipated.

Frances Sharpe Entertains Club

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4.—Miss Frances Sharpe delightfully entertained the members of her club last Wednesday evening at her home on Fifth street.

The evening hours were whiled away with chat and cards. Two tables of bridge were in play during the evening. Prizes at the conclusion went to Miss Letitia Clyde and Miss Kay Henderson.

At an appointed hour dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. Miss Amanda Christie invited the club to meet at her home on First avenue in three weeks.

The members of the newly organized club are the Misses Helen Kissick, Mildred Rhea, Kay Wilson, Frances Sharpe, Kay Henderson, Martha Henderson, Amanda Christie, Letitia Clyde.

Dinner Enjoyed By Club Members

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4.—Members of the J. E. B. club enjoyed a fine 6 o'clock dinner last evening at the home of Mrs. John Brenemen o: Wayne avenue. The table was beautifully decorated in a clever green color scheme for the occasion.

The evening hours were then whiled away with cards around two tables. Each of the guests present received favors. Mrs. Eugene Swartz was presented with the honor prize.

The club will hold a regular meeting Monday night at the home of Mrs. E. B. Moyer on Glenn avenue.

R. Q. CLUB HAS MEETING THURSDAY

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 3.—R. Q. club met at the home of Mrs. Howard Nagel on Fifth street Thursday afternoon for its regular meeting.

A delicious dinner was served at noon with covers laid for 12. Later three tables of 500 were in play. Mrs. N. J. Gordon and Mrs. Stella Haswell received the prizes at the conclusion of the games.

In three weeks the club will meet with Mrs. Myrtle Moon.

ENTERTAINS FOR GUESTS

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4—In honor of her house guests, Misses Edna Bell and Catherine Hoffman of Bellevue, Ruth Marvin, of New Brighton and Edith May McDonald of Riverview, Miss Phyliss Jean Yahn delightfully entertained a group of friends recently at her home on the Ellwood-Zelienople road.

The thirty guests attending passed the hours in a merry manner with a wide variety of diversions holding the attention of everyone. At an appropriate time a tempting luncheon was served by Mrs. C. E. Yahn and her daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Springer.

PHALANX MEETING

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4.—Local Phalanx Fraternity held its weekly meeting in their lodge rooms last Wednesday night with 14 members, three visitors and mentor Lewis Nickum, present.

The organizzation was informed that they are to attend the Men's Bible Class of the U. P. church on Sunday. Plans to raise funds to carry on their service work in the community were discussed. The fraternity also made plans to help reorganize the Gradale Sorority, a sister organization.

29-30 CLUB

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4.—Miss Margaret Battersby was hostess to the members of the 29-30 Club Wednesday evening in her home on First avenue. At the close of two tables of bridge in play, Miss Mary Martin and Miss Kay Koach received the high score awards. A luncheon was served at a later hour by the hostess with the assistance of her mother. Miss Genevieve Curry will entertain the club in two weeks.

PRAYER MEETING

Joint Meeting Held By Local Civic Clubs

Beaver Falls Minister Is Principal Speaker At Enjoyable Event Here

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4.—The Rotary club celebrated in gala fashion last evening with the women of the Women's Business and Professional club, the Kiwanians and their wives, and the Rotary Anns all taking lively part in the celebration.

The dinner was served in the regular dining room of the Presbyterian church which was almost taxed to its limits to care for the larger company. Tables decorated with flowers and a tasty dinner added pleasure to the occasion. The stunt singing was heartily enjoyed and approached in excellence the singing of a great mixed glee club.

The reason for the special meeting was the securing the Rev. R. B. Atwell, pastor of the College Hill Presbyterian church for the speaker of the evening. Mr. Atwell spent last year in graduate study abroad, doing most of this work in Scotland. But he and Mrs. Atwell and their little son spent a number of weeks touring and studying Germany. He made an interesting address on his observations abroad.

Funeral Rites For C. K. Wehr

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4.—Funeral services for Charles K. Wehr, whose death occurred at his home in Wayne avenue on Tuesday evening following a brief illness, were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home. The services were in charge of Rev. W. E. Minteer, pastor of the U. P. church.

Mr. Wehr having spent his entire life-time in this vicinity had a host of friends who were bereaved by his death. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Louise Stoner Wehr; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Blair, Princeton; Mrs. Florence Wilkenson and Mrs. Harry Updegraph, Rose Point; and two brothers, Edward and Randall Wehr, of Wayne avenue.

Interment was made in the Lutheran cemetery at Princeton.

Large Turnout Enjoys Clever Program At First Christian Church Thursday

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4—A large and appreciative crowd was delighted by the presentation of a clever "Old Time Minstrel' in the First Christian church last night.

All the parts were well handled and at the close of the show a long hearty applause resounded through the church. The show was divided into two parts. Mrs. Derry Porter played an important role to a high degree of satisfaction. Others participating in the first part were: Mesdames Teresa Wiley, John Aiken, Rose Belles, Mrs. Hooker, Laveda Koch, Herbert Newton, Rose Henderson, Mary Riggle, Ruth Wiley, the Misses Mildred Hess, Ruth Learsch, Marjorie Maine, Irene Belles, Miss Wiley, Julia Hooker, Lavee Hooker.

Part two consisted of a monologue by Mrs. Hooker, a duet by Julia and Lavee Hooker, a sketch, "Socks and Soap Suds" by Ruth and Teressa Wiley, reading by Mrs. Koch, and Rosemary McCandless, a sketch, "That Dog on Dog" by Laveda Koch, and Mary Riggle, a reading by Maxine Schrock, and the grand finale by all.

Miss Fern Belles was the pianist. Music was provided by the Wiley Hill orchestra. The Minstrel will be repeated again tonight.

Castlewood

DOUBLE WEDDING

One of the prettiest events of the Yultide season took place on Tuesday December 25, 1934, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry, of Beaver Avenue, Ellwood City, when Miss Irene Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Stewart, of Castlewood and Thomas J. Henry, of Ellwood City, and Miss Nellie Henry, of Ellwood City and John Hobrat, of Indiana were united in marriage.

Rev. Richard Owrey, of New Castle performed the double ceremony at two o'clock in the presence of a number of relatives and friends.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hobrat and Mr. and Mrs. Henry will reside in Ellwood City.

MORROW-WERNER WEDDING

New Year's day, 1935 was the date chosen by Miss Mabel P. Morrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Morrow, of Castlewood to become the bride of Henry Werner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Werner of New Galilee. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock in the evening at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of the immediate families, with Rev. T. C. Henderson, pastor of the Moravia Presbyterian church officiating.

The bride was becomingly dressed in peacock blue crepe, with a harmonizing corsage of pink rose buds. Beautiful wedding music was played by Mrs. T. C. Henderson.

After the marriage a buffet supper was served which was daintily appointed in seasonal tones.

Mr. and Mrs. Werner will reside for a time with the bride's parents in Castlewood.

B. Y. P. U. MEETING

The B. Y. P. U. of the Harmony Baptist church held their business and social meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Currie of Weigletown Monday evening December 31, with twenty eight present. It was in the form of a watch party. The business meeting was conducted by president Dale. Several things were discussed one was, "What Type of program would the B. Y. P. U. carry Out" They agreed to have a varied program the first part of the evening would be spent in talks and singing the last half would be taken up with the "Ball game." After the business meeting the rest of the evening was spent in social chat and games and at a late hour a very tasty luncheon was served by Mrs. Currie and her aides.

The young people were invited to hold their next meeting at the home of Miss Helen Houk.

STOCKS

Stock Market Little Changed

Stock Traders Still Await Message To Congress By President Roosevelt

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The stock market drifted lower today as traders awaited the president's message to congress.

Liquor shares were in some demand and moved counter to the trend under the leadership of Commercial Solvents which advanced to a new high for the year.

Farm implement shares turned weak with fractional losses.

Sugar stocks came to life today under the leadership of American Sugar Refining and Great West sugar.

Railroad stocks were neglected.

Chemical, aviation, and specialty shares were dull, but Pullman was a feature in the rails.

Population Is Heading Toward Stabilization

Believed That Soon More Than Half Will Be Found In Old Age Groups

BIRTH AND DEATH RATES TREND DOWN

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—Pennsylvania's population is heading toward stabilization within the next 20 or 25 years, foreshadowing sweeping changes in the economic and industrial life of the commonwealth, according to the state planning board.

"Equally significant," the board pointed out in its recent report to the governor, "is that the commonwealth is headed toward an era in which a much larger proportion of the population will be in the older age groups, and one in which there will be a smaller proportion of children and young people."

A smaller "child population," the board believes, will eventually mean fewer primary schools and smaller attendance in high schools, colleges and universities.

"Because of the increased share of the population of 45 years of age and over, a much wider program will be required to provide for this group either by work opportunities or otherwise," the board reported.

"Schools for the rehabilitation of this untrained older group will have to be envisaged; old age pensions and the number of indigent people will increase appreciably, while health officials will become more and more concerned with the degenerative diseases now showing rising death rates.

"If this picture is expanded a little more, it is found that a stabilized population in which the older groups are predominant will bring changes in the transportation system, housing problem and in a dozen other more or less related activities.

"Manufacturing plants geared to take care of the needs of children and young people will have to cater to the personal requirements of an older group.

"In short, a stabilized population, provided the present trend is maintained, will call for a gradual but inevitable readjustment in the life of the whole state."

Pennsylvania's population in 1930 was 9,631,350, a gain in ten years of 911,333, or 10.5 per cent, the board reported, pointing out, however, that since 1890, with the exception of 1900 to 1910, a steady decline in the percentages of growth has taken place.

"Whether such a marked slowing up will continue is problematical," the planning board believes, "That a downward trend will persist is reasonable to suppose," it added.

The United States as a whole is showing the same downward movement, the board found, but with the exception of Delaware, Pennsylvania had the lowest percentage of population increase among bordering states. If this continues, Pennsylvania will reach stabilization at an earlier date than other states, the board reported.

Both birth and death rates in Pennsylvania are showing a downward trend, the planning board found, but pointed out the excess of births over deaths on the whole shows that the source of future population is diminishing.

Nineteen counties had less people living within their borders in 1930 than they had in 1920, the board reported. They were: Potter, Tioga, Bradford, Susquehanna, Cameron, Sullivan, Juniata, Perry, Bedford, Fulton, Jefferson, Forest, Clarion, Clearfield, Elk, Clinton, Indiana, Huntingdon and Somerset.

PARTY

One of the most delightful events of the holiday season was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Black on New Castle street, when the former's sister, Miss Lucille Black of Detroit, Mich., was guest of honor at an informal gathering of the town's younger set.

The hours were whiled away at bridge, three tables being in play during the evening. Prizes were awarded for unusual hands and making of contract.

At the conclusion of play, Mrs. Black, hostess, served a daintily appointed luncheon to the assembled guests.

NEW YEARS PARTY

Among the many parties ushering in the new year in the community, one of the most outstanding was an informal get-together at the Barr home on East Neshannock avenue, when Miss Margaretta Barr and James Barr collaborated in entertaining a group of friends on Monday night.

Cards and games featured the evening's entertainment, two tables of bridge being in progress during the course of the evening.

Following the process of watching in the new year, the hostess, assisted by Miss Frances Barr and Miss Eleanor Barr, served a delightful luncheon.

Conductors And Wives Meet For Dinner Thursday

Dinner Enjoyed At 6 O'clock, Installation Of Officers Follows

Thirty-five members of the Order of Railroad Conductors met for dinner at 6 o'clock Thursday evening in the Mahoning M. E. church. Covers were laid for the guests at a large table centered by a miniature Christmas tree and red tapers.

After the dinner the group went to the Horchler hall for a joint installation service.

Officers of the men's lodge were installed by W. T. Saul, while those of the auxiliary were installed by Mrs. Alice Guy, as grand president, and Mrs. Susie Morrissey as grand marshall.

INSTALL OFFICERS

The first 1935 meeting of the Immaculate Conception Sodality was held on January 2 at St. Lucy's church with about 51 members present. The installation of the following officers took place at this time: President, Stella DiMasi; vice president, Jennie Zumbella; secretary, Helen Nocera; treasurer, Irene Naples; standard bearer, Barbara DeVivo.

A skating party will be held Wednesday, January 9.

A theater party will be an event of the same night for those who do not go skating.

BEREAN CLASS DINNER

An evening delightfully informal, opening with a dinner at 6 o'clock and topped off with a playlet, was enjoyed by 20 members of the Berean Bible class, a men's and women's organization of the Madison Avenue Christian church.

Hostesses of the evening at the church were: Mrs. A. S. Eberhart, Mrs. J. W. McHattie, Mrs. Erma Seamons, Mrs. R. G. Clark and Mrs. S. F. Turk.

At the close of dinner a business meeting was conducted, followed by the presentation of the sketch, "Tillie and Millie in New York," by Mrs. Stephen Hutnick and Mrs. J. B. Bumbaugh.

In one month the organization will meet at the home of Mrs. S. F. Turk, North Liberty street.

LATEST BOOKS

These titles have been added to the pay collection shelves of the Mahoningtown library, Mrs. Gladys Johnston, branch librarian, said Thursday:

Folded Hills—White.

With Banners—Loring.

Yonder Sails the Mayflower—Morrow.

Powdersnake Range—MacDonald.

The Crooked Lane—Frances Noyes Hart.

Quite a number of new books for children have also been added to the local library.

METHODIST NOTES

Rev. Thomas Francis, retired Methodist minister, will preach at the Mahoning Methodist church next Sunday morning and evening.

MAHONING-SHENANGO

Mahoning Junior high basketball team will meet Shenango high's team on the Shenango floor Saturday.

Next week the Mahoning 7A team will play 8B, the 7B will play 8A and 7B-2 will play 6A.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS

Donald McLure, of Cleveland, O., has returned there after a visit here.

C. E. Dungan, of Newell avenue, left this morning for a visit with his brother, in Steubenville, O.

Mrs. Evelyn Rogers and sister, of Pittsburgh, returned home Friday after several days in seventh ward.

John Diffley, of North Ashland avenue, has returned home from Baltimore, Md., where he spent New Year's.

Relatives here received word early Thursday morning of the critical condition of Peter McGahn in a Youngstown, O., hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Yount, of New Cumberland, W. Va., were guests early this week, of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Solomon, North Liberty street. Mrs. Solomon is their daughter.

K. Of C. Members To Have Party

The committee in charge of social activities at the K. of C. promises the Knights a good time tonight when the first of a long series of parties to be held during the winter season will take place.

A lively program of entertainment has been arranged which will be followed by eats and a smoker.

HURT WHILE SKATING

Thursday evening while a group of boys were enjoying the ice skating at Lakewood and having a grand time swinging each other in a game of "crack the whip" young Bob Gwin of Clenmore Boulevard happened to be the end boy and as the line swirled about he was thrown quite a distance and sustained some painful bumps and bruises.

Although the lad is painfully recovering today, the extent of his injuries are not known.
